

Austria Wants Guarantees of Full Freedom From Germany

Hopes Hitler Will Make Direct Pledge in Address

CONFAB IN BERLIN
New Minister of Interior
In Interview With Fuehrer

Vienna.—(7)—Austria served notice today she expected Germany's Fuehrer Hitler to fulfill promises of the Hitler-Schuschnigg agreement, in the same measure as did the Austrians by naming cabinet ministers acceptable to Germany and by granting amnesty to Austrian political prisoners.

Officially inspired newspaper statements declared that Hitler in his address to the Reichstag Sunday should guarantee Austrian independence—directly and not incidentally.

Should he avoid this direct pledge, the feeling here is that Austria would consider Germany as having acted in bad faith regarding the Hitler-Schuschnigg negotiations at Berchtesgaden.

Goes to Berlin
Arthur Seys-Inquart, new Austrian minister of the interior, who is favorable to Germany and whose appointment was approved by Hitler, carried Chancellor Schuschnigg's ideas on the subject to Berlin today.

He left Vienna last night by cabinet order to inform Hitler that Austria has laid new foundations for prosperous cooperation between the two states, and that the Austrian government now expects Germany to do her part.

The first gestures of cooperation by Hitler are expected to include: Strict orders to the German press to treat Austria henceforth as her "German brother."

Dissolution of all Nazi clubs in Germany which supported the Austrian Nazi movement—the Nazi party has been outlawed in Austria, but membership in the fatherland front, Austria's only legal party, is to become available in an effort to maintain internal peace.

Austrian Nazis expect that their party soon may be legalized.

Employment Plan
Lowering of foreign exchange barriers, to permit German tourists again to enjoy Austrian resorts.

Participation by Austrian industry and agriculture in German Reich Marshal General Hermann Goering's four-year plan for economic sufficiency. This, it was expected, would reduce Austrian unemployment.

Investment of German capital in Austrian business.

The new foundations laid by Austria included:

The cabinet reorganization by which Chancellor Schuschnigg selected Seys-Inquart, friend of Hitler, to men called sympathetic to Germany and two nationalists.

Amnesty for political prisoners, which Nazis said affected some 3,200 persons, 54 of them involved in the unsuccessful putsch which resulted in the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in 1934.

The two major steps stemmed from talks between Schuschnigg and Hitler at Berchtesgaden last Sunday, talks which the Austrian foreign office emphasized led to new agreement to restore Austria's German strength.

With the agreement of July 11, 1936, wherein Austria's independence was assured.

Berlin.—(7)—Austria's pro-Nazi minister of the interior, Arthur Seys-Inquart, reported today to Reichsfuehrer Hitler on the sweeping German-ordered changes in Vienna.

As Seys-Inquart arrived from Vienna some quarters facetiously observed that the Austrian minister, admitted to power in the cabinet shakeup that broke down Austrian resistance to Nazi influence, was reporting to his "new boss."

The more conservative view, however, was that Seys-Inquart had paid a call on the Fuehrer, his

French Officials
Fear Austria Has Been 'Abandoned'

Paris.—(7)—French foreign office officials today voiced suspicion that Premier Mussolini had "abandoned" Austria to Germany in return for a promise for further Italian territorial conquests in Africa.

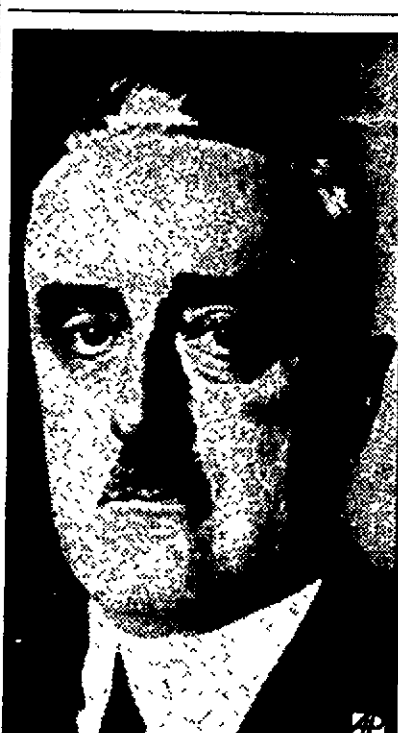

They said they had reason to believe that the "price" of Italian inaction in the Nazi advance on Austria had been fixed by it due as support for a projected Italian campaign in North Africa.

The French for some time have attributed to Mussolini an ambition to take over Tunisia, French North African colony.

The foreign office officials said that both the French and British ambassadors to Berlin had asked Germany about her future intentions in Austria.

There was foreign office concern over what its officials termed a "lukewarm attitude" suddenly developed in Britain regarding aid for Austria.

Added Equipment Needed at Every Navy Yard to Speed Construction, Admiral Says

NAZI SYMPATHIZER

Dr. Edmund Glaise-Horstensau was one of three Nazi sympathizers awarded posts in a revision of the Austrian cabinet. He was reappointed to the cabinet as minister without portfolio.

Washington.—(7)—The navy's chief constructor told the house naval committee today additional facilities would have to be provided at every navy yard to permit expeditious construction of the proposed $500,000,000 naval expansion program.

Rear Admiral William G. DuBose explained the facilities needed would include new ways and other equipment. He urged the bill be amended to give the department authority to put the yards in shape to handle the work.

DuBose began his testimony after the committee spent almost two hours in stormy debate over a proposal to end opposition testimony on the bill. The committee voted 17 to 3 to set aside two more days for opposition witnesses.

Representative Brewster (R-Me.) engaged in several sharp verbal tilts with Chairman Vanson (D-Ga.) and other committee members over the propriety of denying minorities the right to be heard on the bill.

Creates Uproar
Representative Maas (R-Minn.) threw the committee into an uproar when he called for an immediate vote on his motion to halt all testimony against the bill and "stop this filibuster."

Brewster, objecting to the term "filibuster," called on Maas to sit down.

"You sit down," shouted the Minnesotan. "I still have the floor. I am not referring to you when I speak of a filibuster."

In calling Admiral DuBose to testify several committee members said they wanted to learn how the navy would use the $15,000,000 experimental fund which President Roosevelt recommended for inclusion in the bill.

"Mosquito Fleet"
It has been hinted that part of the money would go for a "mosquito fleet" of small, swift vessels.

Business Advisory Group
Asks Roosevelt to Back
Recommendations

Washington.—(7)—President Roosevelt was urged by a business advisory council subcommittee today to support council recommendations for giving employers, as well as employees, the right to invoke the services of the labor relations board.

In one of two reports submitted to the president on behalf of the council's industrial relations committee by Charles R. Hook and John D. Biggers, chairman and vice chairman respectively of the committee.

Both reports had been approved by the council unanimously.

The first report, approved April 8, 1937, declared federal and state legislation should encourage peaceful settlement of labor disputes. It added that resort to force was "injurious" to all concerned.

The second report was approved Jan. 20, 1938, and contained the following proposed amendments to the labor relations act:

"Neither the act nor its administration will favor any particular form of any bona fide labor organization."

"Employees shall be free in self-organization and collective bargaining from interference, restraint or coercion from any source."

"Any party to a labor dispute shall be able to invoke the services of the board."

"The functions of fact-finding, prosecution and judicial decision shall be separated and not combined in a single agency."

May Consolidate Child
Welfare, Public Assistance,
Age Pensions Agencies

Madison.—(7)—State department heads agreed today in the main with Governor LaFollette's plan to group child welfare, public assistance and old age pension services under one department at a hearing before the legislative reorganization committee.

Some difference of opinion was expressed by officials concerning methods of administration but all said the three services would function better as a whole.

The governor said one worker assigned by the new department to a restricted territory could meet local county problems with a better understanding of conditions, than three agency workers over a wide field.

Harry McLogan, member of the industrial commission, while agreeing the departments should consolidate, said he believed relief workers in many cases could not capably handle the old age pension service because of a wide difference in duties.

Philip D. Flanner, director of the welfare department, and Voyta Wratetz, chairman of the industrial commission, favored consolidation.

Try to Link Slayer
With Corcoran Murder

Minneapolis.—(7)—Police today continued questioning Bruno Sydo, 33, who they said has confessed killing a Crosby, Minn., theater proprietor, seeking a possible link with the slaying three months ago tonight of Patrick J. Corcoran, Minneapolis labor leader.

Detective Captain James Mullen said Sydo admitted shooting last May 17 George Thorpe, 65-year-old theater man.

President of Bankrupt
Firm Still in Texas,
Court Told

Milwaukee.—(7)—Bonds of $25,000 each were posted last yesterday for Vice President L. C. George and Secretary-Treasurer E. C. Holt, two of three officials of B. E. Buckman and Company, bankrupt Madison investment firm, charged with violating the state "blue sky" securities law.

Defense Counsel Carl N. Hill told District Judge Harvey Neelen that President B. E. Buckman, third official, was in Bay City, Texas, and would return here to arrange bond Feb. 27 or 28.

Judge Neelen tentatively set April 4 as the date for a preliminary hearing.

Warrants against the three men contain 20 counts charging sales of unregistered stocks. The warrants were issued yesterday by District Attorney Herbert J. Stefles after he and two special counsel appointed by Governor La Follette had questioned Milwaukee customers of the Buckman company.

Stefles, who had asked that bond be set at $50,000 apiece, said conviction on each count would carry a penalty "running up to $5,000 fine or five years' imprisonment, or both."

Bondsmen for George and Holt were Dr. H. C. Bradley of the University of Wisconsin faculty; John W. Gay and L. R. Gray, Madison real estate men.

Hill urged "reasonable" bail, arguing that "these men have lived in Wisconsin since 1921. They are all substantial citizens."

"Yes, they're substantial," Stefles replied. "But that's because of the operations with which they are charged. The way they came

Girl on Stand at Trial for Murder

Denies She Turned Child
Victim Over on Face
In Mud Puddle

Philadelphia.—(7)—Mary O'Connor, her eyes moist from crying, told at her trial today of the slay state holds killed 5-year-old Nancy Glenn.

"She was standing beside me," testified the blonde girl, 19, who is charged with murdering, "just sort of swung around and hit her with the back of my hand."

She took the stand in her own defense after the court denied a request for a directed verdict of acquittal.

"Nancy just fell," explained Miss O'Connor, as she described the scene on a country lane near the homes of both the Glenn and O'Connor families last Labor day. The child's body later was found in a mud puddle, covered by a sheet of tin.

"I felt her pulse and didn't know what had happened. I thought she was dead. I got a piece of tin from somewhere and put it over her. Then I got away as quick as I could."

She said Nancy had been teasing—asking for a ride on her bicycle. Under questioning by counsel, William A. Gray, she denied she had turned Nancy over on her face in a mud puddle.

"Did you tell detectives you turned her over?" Gray asked.

"I told them nothing about that," "Did you put her head in the water?" Gray continued.

"No," Mary answered.

An autopsy showed the child died from mud and water in her lungs.

Inquest Is Postponed
In Von Nobel Tragedy

Marquette.—(7)—Coroner Robert L. Thompson today deferred until next week an inquest into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Von Nobel, killed by pistol shots which authorities said Von Nobel fired a few minutes before they were to appear in divorce court Tuesday.

The inquest set no definite date for the inquest.

A search of Von Nobel's effects, the authorities said, disclosed no documents concerning the disposition of his estate.

Involved in the 7,000-acre Von Nobel ranch in the town of Silver Cliff, Mrs. Von Nobel, wealthy Milwaukeean, had sought to dispossess her husband, contending she purchased the ranch for approximately $10,000.

Madison.—(7)—Secretary of State Theodore Damman warned 450,000 Wisconsin automobile owners today the deadline for buying license plates will not be extended beyond March 1.

He said the motor vehicle division is able to license between 15,000 and 20,000 vehicles daily and urged car owners not to cause a last minute rush.

Sanity Test May Free Wright in Double Slaying

Status to be Determined
After Commission Reports Findings

Los Angeles.—(7)—Convicted of manslaughter, yet, paradoxically, held to be innocent of the slaying of his wife and his best friend because of temporary insanity, Paul A. Wright may walk out of court tomorrow a free man.

The effect of a jury's verdict late yesterday, holding the former airport executive to have been insane Nov. 9 when he shot Evelyn Wright and John Kimmel, was to exempt Wright from the penalty for two counts of manslaughter—one to 20 years in prison.

The same jury of four women and eight men who convicted Wright of manslaughter said they believed he killed when temporarily deranged.

Wright's defense was that he suffered an emotional shock in finding his wife and Kimmel in what he claimed was an abnormal embrace.

Will Examine Wright
Today a county lunacy commission, composed of four psychiatrists, will examine Wright. The commission's findings will be reported at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to Superior Judge Ben B. Lindsey.

Then will rule on Wright's status, then will rule on Wright's status, then will rule on Wright's status.

The examination is in the nature of a formality. Alienists who observed Wright during the four weeks of his trial testified they believe he is sane now. After announcing the verdict yesterday, Judge Ingall Bull made this statement:

"It appears to this court that the defendant has regained his sanity, but I remand him to the custody of the sheriff until his sanity has been decided in the manner prescribed by law."

Under California law, the jury was bound to determine Wright's sanity after convicting him of manslaughter because of his double plea, innocent, and innocent by reason of insanity.

$100,000 Is Sought in Suit Against Publisher

New York.—(7)—Bernard MacFadden, 69, who made a fortune out of physical culture and still munched raw carrots for lunch, said today a $100,000 alienation of affections suit against him was "a plot to extort money."

The bushy-haired publisher, who began his career as a professional wrestler, was accused by Sol C. Adams, a Danvers, Mass., waiter, of seducing his wife, Abbie Rheinhardt Adams, 45, of Joplin, Mo., after she became nurse at the MacFadden health resort in Battle Creek, Mich.

Fatal Fight to Bring Manslaughter Trial

LaCrosse.—(7)—Ray Trusty, 29, of Minneapolis, was held under $5,000 bond today for trial in circuit court on a charge of fourth degree manslaughter in the death of Elmer Herman, Winona, Minn., here last Oct. 3. Herman died after being struck by Trusty, police said, in an altercation near a tavern.

Ernest Wallace, arrested with Trusty as a material witness at Burlington, Iowa, pleaded innocent to a charge of perjury in his testimony at Trusty's preliminary hearing. Wallace's bail was fixed at $2,500 and his hearing was set for Feb. 23.

Lawrence Mulcahey, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Jack Reynolds, Milwaukee, waived a hearing on charges of being accessories after the fact in Herman's death and were permitted to sign their own bonds for $500.

PLANS TO APPEAL

Boston.—(7)—Former Governor James M. Curley planned today an immediate appeal from a superior court decision ordering him to return to the city of Boston $20,000 "corruptly accepted" while mayor in settlement of a suit against the city of Boston.

Judge Frederick W. Fosdick yesterday ordered Curley to return $27,575 and Joseph Santosuosso $25,050. The $57,575 included costs and interest at 6 per cent to the date of the decree. Santosuosso was counsel for the General Equipment company, which sued the city in 1932 for damages to its Boston plant caused by a broken water main.

Army Bombers Are Flying to Buenos Aires

6 SHIPS IN FLIGHT

Most Ambitious Non-Stop
Mass Hop in History of Army

Miami, Fla.—(7)—Six huge army bombers on a non-stop good will flight from Miami to Peru crossed the Panama Canal zone early today and sped onward.

A radio message received at Chapman field here said the craft were directly over the canal at 7:13 a. m. eastern standard time and were heading to Lima, capital of Peru, unless forced back by weather.

At 8 o'clock a. m. (C.S.T.) the planes reported they were 430 miles south of Colon. Officials here computed the squadron's average speed at 200 m. p. m. and said it should reach Lima about 1:30 p. m. (C.S.T.).

They were about 1,165 miles from Lima at 8 o'clock a. m.

The sky giants flew the 1,100 miles across the Caribbean sea to Panama in 6 hours and 30 minutes.

Fly To Buenos Aires
At Lima the huge "Flying fortresses" will stop overnight before undertaking another 2,532-mile non-stop flight to Buenos Aires, where they will take part in exercises at the inauguration of President-elect R. M. Ortiz of Argentina.

They left the municipal airport at Miami at 12:55 a. m. today and disappeared in the darkness to the south. Regularly they radioed their progress to the army field here.

At 2 o'clock a. m. they were over Cuba. Radio messages were exchanged between Lieutenant Colonel Robert Olds and Secretary of War Woodring as the craft reached the open Caribbean.

A 20-mile headwind slowed them down until they were far over the sea. Then they ran clear of it and their speed jumped to 234 statute miles per hour. They passed about 150 miles west of Jamaica.

Florence County Prosecutor
Says Elderly Man
Hurt in Two Falls

Oshkosh.—(7)—District Attorney Lewis C. Magnusen and Dr. G. A. Steele, Winnebago county coroner, today called an immediate inquest into the death of John Todd, 75, a county resident, who died at the Winnebago State hospital 21 hours after he was brought there in an unconscious condition three days ago.

Magnusen and Dr. Steele said a post mortem revealed Todd died from a skull fracture.

Florence, Wis.—(7)—District Attorney Allen C. Wittkop of Florence county said today that John Todd, 75, into whose death an inquest was called this afternoon at Oshkosh, had received injuries in two falls at his place of residence.

Wittkop, who said he had made a thorough investigation of the case, declared that Todd was a county charge and had been living at the home of a Mrs. Miller, caretaker for Florence county aged and infirm.

Todd fell Saturday, Wittkop said, and acted in a deranged manner thereafter. When he fell again Monday, Wittkop said, a commitment to the Winnebago hospital was issued by County Judge Verle E. Sells.

Missing Kansas Boy Is Found Dead Near Mines

Pittsburg, Kans.—(7)—Searchers found 12-year-old Bert Lee Walker dead of exposure yesterday—only 100 feet from two brightly lighted mines where he could have found a haven for himself and his 8-year-old sister, Vivian May.

Bert Lee and Vivian May became lost on a bicycle ride Sunday night. Rescuers found Vivian May, on the verge of pneumonia, in a field 15 miles from home late Monday.

Returned to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Walker, she incoherently told of vainly having sought directions to two farm houses.

Finally, Bert Lee had told Vivian to remain in the field alone—"and don't be scared of the dark"—while he sought help.

Searchers surmised Bert Lee had become exhausted, and had fallen into the ditch.

Wants Reinstatement

Madison.—(7)—Adjutant General Ralph M. Imnell, former WPA administrator, appealed to Senator Robert M. LaFollette today for assistance in obtaining reinstatement of the Wisconsin WPA lime project to increase the fertility of state farms.

Imnell recalled in a letter to the senator that in 1935 the federal accounting office ruled lime production as a WPA project was illegal because the lime was used on privately owned land, and the project was a direct subsidy to a special class.

Washington.—(7)—Senator Frazier (R-N.D.) predicted today an effort would be made in a senate appropriations subcommittee to double the $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation.

The committee called Aubrey Williams, acting works progress administration director, before it this afternoon to explain the need for the requested increase in WPA funds, voted yesterday by the house.

The house, meanwhile, commenced debate on a $130,071,405 appropriation to turn the state, justice, commerce and labor departments during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

New Crop Control Program Facing First Test When Farmers Cast Secret Votes

Cotton and Tobacco Growers First to Pass on Proposals

Washington—(AP)—The administration's new farm program, having reached the statute books despite stiff congressional opposition, now faces its first test at the hands of farmers.

Within a month, 2,225,000 cotton and tobacco growers will have an opportunity to cast secret ballots on a proposal—authorized by the new law—that the agriculture department be given broad power to control marketing of their crops this season.

President Roosevelt described the bill as "historic legislation" when he signed it yesterday. It is "not perfect," he added, although it marks "the winning of one more battle for an underlying farm policy that will endure."

Need Two-Thirds Majority
To put the marketing quotas in effect, two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum will have to cast approving ballots.

The law leaves up to the secretary of agriculture the method of holding the elections. It directs him, in the event that more than one-third of the voters are adverse, to suspend operation of the quota and withhold loans.

Should the power be granted, Secretary Wallace will invoke quotas designed to hold the 1938 cotton production and marketable supply at about 10,750,000 bales. Last year's crop was 18,747,000 bales.

The five-crop tobacco production quota would be fixed at about 700,000,000 pounds, compared with last year's yield of more than 800,000,000 pounds.

Will Order Referenda
Announcement that he would order referenda on cotton and tobacco marketing quotas came late yesterday from Secretary Wallace. He said both crops were burdened by price-depressing surpluses.

Whether quotas will be proposed for corn will not be determined until August. The other two crops affected by the legislation—wheat and rice—are exempt from quotas this year.

State, county and local farmer committees are to help Wallace in his arrangements for referenda, allotments and benefit payments.

Wallace will appoint the state committees. Farmers themselves will elect county committees, which in turn will choose the county groups.

The agriculture department will designate state and county committees that will divide these among counties and individual farms on the basis of past production.

Old-Age Benefits Total $55,000 in State Last Year

Social Security Board Certified 2,151 Claims For $33 Average

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Old-age lump-sum insurance payments in Wisconsin aggregated $55,000.00 at the end of January, 1938, according to figures made public by the social security board, making a total of 2,151 claims certified in the state.

During the month of January, 1938, exactly 567 claims were certified amounting to $19,177.81 paid for the month in Wisconsin, making an average of $33.82 per claimant.

Since the government's old-age insurance plan went into effect on January 1, 1937, $2,023,207 has been certified for payment to 76,775 claimants for the United States as a whole. Each of the claims paid amounts to 81 per cent of the total wages paid to wage earners.

The largest claim that has been certified went to an employee who reached the age of 65, 15 years and a lump-sum in January of $255. The largest death claim certified was for $420.

For the country as a whole during January a total of $745,691 was certified for payment to 23,538 claimants—workers who reached the age of 65 and the estates of workers who died. The average amount of each payment was $31.66, or almost double the average of $17 for all claims paid up to the end of August.

18 HELD IN ILLINOIS

Chicago—(AP)—Eighteen men were arrested yesterday on warrants charging violation of the Illinois securities act.

Eugene O'Connor of the state's attorney's staff directed the police who seized the men in the offices of Marks, Lasar and Company, La Salle street investment brokers. He said the firm had sold 30,000 shares of stock of the General Carpet Corporation of North Philadelphia, Pa. Security Commissioner John T. Jarwick said the stock had not been registered at the office of the Illinois secretary of state.

Arraigned before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, seven partners in the concern were released on bonds of $10,000 each and 11 salesmen were released on bonds of $2,500 each. A hearing was set for March 10.

O'Connor said the brokerage house had offices in Shreveport, La. and Dallas, Texas.

The Carpet corporation stock was underwritten by B. E. Buckman and Company of Madison, Wis. Investigators said Marks, Lasar and Company, received a fee of 10,000 shares of stock for finding the underwriter, and William Siegel, one of the salesmen named in a warrant but not in custody, a fee of 12,000 shares.

License Granted

A license to sell beer at Armory G for one day was granted to Company D. The organization will hold a dancing party at the armory tonight. Alderman Thompson objected to the short notice given the council to make a decision. Following the discussion, the clerk was ordered to notify Company D officials to apply earlier in the future.

A claim for $5,000, filed by Margaret Stengel, 18, through her father, A. P. Stengel, Medina, was referred to the school board, the school relations committee of the council and the city attorney. Miss Stengel alleged she suffered an injury when she fell while en route to Wilson Junior High school, Jan. 31.

A report of the rebate committee returning various amounts of money, assessed by the city for oiling, wred cutting and snow shoveling, to a number of taxpayers, was adopted.

A license to sell intoxicating liquors was granted to the Ford Hopkins Drug company and an operator's license was given to Nick Stark, 219 N. Appleton street. Applications of Clarence Kohl for an operator's license and Nathan Jacobson for a junk dealer's license were referred to the police and license committee.

similar to the so-called "suicide squadrons" employed by some foreign powers. They would be constructed of light steel, equipped with two torpedoes and manned by two officers and six or seven men.

In view of Japan's refusal to give the United States information concerning her naval building plans, members said the committee probably would question Admiral Dugan as to the advisability of this country building battleships larger than the 35,000-ton limit fixed by the 1936 London naval treaty.

Meanwhile, renewed opposition developed in the house military committee to the pending bill designed to take the profits out of war. Representative Maverick (D-Texas), assailing the measure as "an out and out fake," reintroduced rapid tax provisions and said he would offer them as a substitute.

Bigger navy champions armed themselves for congressional debate with an estimate that the administration's naval program would provide upwards of 250,000 annual jobs to combat the business recession.

Their statisticians figured a 20 per cent increase in warship construction would provide employment for one year for at least 155,648 persons.

To this, they added 77,970 workers on 22 ships in normal replacement construction, and 21,200 officers and men who eventually would be added to navy personnel.

Omitted from the reckoning, the cause of insufficient data, were the 1,600 new planes proposed in the expansion bill.

personal friend, to show that Austria meant business in pledging to give its nazi-inclined elements a chance to help rebuild the state.

Beyond the bare announcement that Seyss-Inquart had conferred with Hitler, Foreign Minister Joaquin von Ribbentrop and Field Marshal General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler's chief aide, no public statement was made.

Cooperation Aim
The general interpretation was that the visit was another indication no time would be lost in realization of a new and closer cooperation between the two German-speaking states.

The controlled German press continues, meanwhile, to hint at further important developments. Goering's newspaper, the National Zeitung, observes that the Austrian cabinet reorganization and subsequent amnesty for nazi and other political prisoners in Austria means Austrians henceforth may express their "love and reverence" for Hitler without fear of reprisal.

The ultimate outcome of the developments set in motion at Berchtesgaden, says the National Zeitung, will be a "realization of our ardent desires—a great German reich consisting of two states formed out of the one German people."

ITALY APPROVES
Rome—(AP)—Italy gave its official benediction today to the Berchtesgaden conference and the Hitler-Enns changes in the Austrian cabinet.

The new Austro-German "collaboration is greeted with open favor by the Italian government as the start of a new era of pacification between two great peoples which are profoundly bound together by race, language and common culture," said a communique of Italian Foreign Ministry.

This declaration turned the spotlight on Premier Mussolini's radical change of policy since July, 1934, when he sent two army divisions to the Austrian border as a warning to the nazis after the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

Army Bombers on Good Will Flight has ever undertaken. One officer is Lieutenant Torgil Wold, meteorologist who prepared weather reports from information received by Pan American Airways, whose facilities were used.

Lieutenant D. R. Gibbs, spokesman, pointed out that the rainy season is on in the tropics and the exact conditions to be encountered south of Panama were not known at the takeoff.

Each plane carried 2,400 gallons of gasoline, weighing seven tons. With their crews and equipment the bombers weighed about 20 tons each. No military equipment was aboard.

Ordinarily aboard each plane are two rubber life rafts with a capacity of five men each, life vests for each man, flare pistols, two radio sets for sending and receiving and a radio homing device.

The planes did not seek to stay within sight of one another. Lieutenant Briggs said the navigator aboard each craft would plot its course.

sion would be granted unless 50 per cent of real estate taxes, together with special assessments, are paid before Mar. 1.

Referred to Committee
Bids on two squad cars for the police department were opened and referred to the police and license committee with power to act. Aldermen Franzke and Vanderheyden voted against referring the bids to the committee.

The bid of the Tri-City Motor company quoted a total price on two Plymouth sedans of $1,556, with an allowance for the two cars now in use, of $1,136, a difference of $420. Extras were quoted at $165.30 making a total of $585.30 to be paid for the two machines. The bid of the Wolter Motor company for the same model car quoted a difference of $605.80 to be paid for the two cars.

Alderman Franzke objected to awarding the contracts because an insufficient number of bids were received. He said he believed the city should readvertise so that all motor companies would have a chance to bid.

Alderman Steinhauer, who presided in the absence of Mayor Woodland, said advertising for new bids would not be fair to the companies which had submitted bids because other bidders would know the amounts quoted.

License Granted
A license to sell beer at Armory G for one day was granted to Company D. The organization will hold a dancing party at the armory tonight. Alderman Thompson objected to the short notice given the council to make a decision. Following the discussion, the clerk was ordered to notify Company D officials to apply earlier in the future.

A claim for $5,000, filed by Margaret Stengel, 18, through her father, A. P. Stengel, Medina, was referred to the school board, the school relations committee of the council and the city attorney. Miss Stengel alleged she suffered an injury when she fell while en route to Wilson Junior High school, Jan. 31.

A report of the rebate committee returning various amounts of money, assessed by the city for oiling, wred cutting and snow shoveling, to a number of taxpayers, was adopted.

A license to sell intoxicating liquors was granted to the Ford Hopkins Drug company and an operator's license was given to Nick Stark, 219 N. Appleton street. Applications of Clarence Kohl for an operator's license and Nathan Jacobson for a junk dealer's license were referred to the police and license committee.

Lions Club Hears Talk on Erosion

Waupaca Postmaster Speaker at Clintonville Meeting

Clintonville—James Carew, postmaster at Waupaca, talked on "Soil Erosion" after the weekly dinner of the Clintonville Lions club Tuesday evening at Hotel Marson. He explained how China, once a fertile country, is now barely able to produce enough food for its people because it had failed to restore its soil. Mr. Carew also showed the recklessness with which forests are being removed in the United States, and the wasteful process of erosion going on in our western states, once covered with fertile prairies. Statistics were given to show that millions of tons of rich top soil are washed away annually by the wind and rain.

Other guests of the club were Francis M. Higgins and Dr. James Devine. A large crowd of Masons, Eastern Stars and their families attended the "Major Bowes" amateur program given at the Masonic temple Tuesday evening. Everett Bard, taking the part of the major, announced the entertainment features. The program was followed by a basket social, at which the lunch baskets were auctioned and sold to the highest bidder.

Members of the Methodist Ladies Aid society held a "housewarming" for Mrs. Hans Halla Wednesday afternoon. The time was spent informally, after which a covered dish supper was served. The Halla family recently moved into the Jesse house on N. Twelfth street vacated by Mrs. J. J. Kelley, who moved to Stevens Point.

The Leisner club was entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Charles Wendler at her home on N. Clinton avenue. Three tables of bridge were followed by a luncheon.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids or poisons in your blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 8 pounds of waste.
Frequent or stony passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait till your druggist for Dean's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Dean's Pills.

Red Flannels are Just a Curiosity, Survey Shows

Red flannels, a trifle cumbersome but as warm an underwear as ever shut out the cold winter winds, have been relegated to the ranks of vanishing American customs.

A survey of Appleton stores that sell men's clothes yesterday failed to unearth a single pair of the two-piece, colorful garment that were standard equipment for grandfathers during the snowy months.

A couple merchants, believing the reporter actually wanted to buy a pair, said they could order it for him through a wholesale house. But none had any red flannels in stock; in fact, the merchants agreed that they were more of a curiosity now than anything else.

One store had an order for a pair last year. But nobody has asked for any this winter, the manager said. One merchant pointed out that the one-piece union suit, not quite as heavy in weight and garish in color, is riding the crest of favor now. The men questioned seem to feel that less heavy underwear is being worn these days by the men anyway than in the years when a horse and cutter was the slickest means of transportation in the winter time and life was lived a lot closer to the elements.

One clothier said that red flannels began to lose their popularity about 15 years ago and that in the last 10 years, sales were "negligible." The original flannels had a shirt and drawers.

Men's Club Will Discuss Government and Business

"Government and Business" will be the topic tonight at a meeting of the Lawrence Men's club following at 6:15 dinner in the Conway hotel.

Donald DuShane, assistant professor of government at Lawrence, will lead the discussion.

Work on Addition To County Asylum Is Near Completion

Work on the $100,000 addition to the Outagamie county asylum is expected to be completed within the next week or 10 days, according to Raymond N. LeVee, whose firm prepared plans and specifications. Construction of the addition was begun last spring.

Painters are applying the final coats of paint on the interior of the building and other finishing work is rapidly being completed. The new unit will house the administrative department, hospital, quarters for the asylum superintendent and family, quarters for employees and rooms for recreation and occupational therapy work.

Dr. Rector Appointed To State Cancer Board

Dr. A. E. Rector, president-elect of the Wisconsin Medical society, has been appointed a member of the state advisory board for the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, according to an announcement by Mrs. F. H. Clausen, Horicon, state commander.

Mrs. W. Z. Stuart and F. J. Sennebrenner, Neenah, are also members of the board. The Women's Field Army in its first national drive last spring enlisted more than 100,000 women in its campaign against cancer.

Joining at 6:15 dinner in the Conway hotel.

Donald DuShane, assistant professor of government at Lawrence, will lead the discussion.

Pegler Places 'Jimmy' In Role of Crown Prince

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago—Judging by numerous signs, the time is ripe to realize that there is such an office as that of crown prince in the American system and to acknowledge "Jimmy" Roosevelt as the first to bear that honor. In the manner of little Prince Mike of Rumania and many another precocious military prodigy of the courts of the old world, Prince James became a lieutenant colonel of the United States Marine corps reserve overnight by his father's appointment.

This is a rank to which other officers of either the regular establishment or the reserve could not reasonably aspire without many years of faithful service, but in the case of a prince it is customary to skip the lower grades so that the inevitable appointment to the rank of field marshal a few years later will not seem too abrupt.

By this time next year James should be flying from the prow of his White House royal coach the two-starred flag of a major general and reviewing his faithful legions on some historic plain. And at his current rate of advancement over the laggard files of the service he should expect to receive his baton well before the reign is out—a weapon which, for sentiment's sake, might well be made in the form of an out-size fountain pen, insurance men all early fountain pens. Prince James has taken gracefully to the authority of heir of a royal house.

Never elected to any office nor otherwise acknowledged by the people of the democracy as anything more than a prosperous young insurance man, the prince attended to that oversight himself a month ago when he issued a statement to his subjects in Massachusetts.

Acceptance Position of Importance in State

The statement that the administration or myself might support a Republican candidate for the governorship is absurd and ridiculous. Prince James declared in a formal manifesto, "I will support those elected by the people at the primary and in the regular election campaign."

It will be noted that the prince said "the people" and not "my people," the customary royal form, but James is new to his role and the faux pas will be forgiven. Of course, there may be those who will rear back and demand a plain explanation of what he means when he speaks of "the administration or myself." A construction which introduces a new element into the government. But, to the understanding mind, no plainer words are necessary, and if they were they would be found in his declaration that he will support those elected by the people.

In what capacity will he support those elected by the people? Surely not in the capacity of insurance salesman, for insurance salesmen are not qualified, as such, to issue such pronouncements with such solemnity and assurance. Quite obper's candidacy, and it would be dishonest to pretend to believe that he regards himself merely as one citizen among the millions and of rank no different from the rest.

James has been taken into a palace and, like the former Prince of Wales, who took his schooling for the kingship in errands devised to ballyhoo him for the crown, is being brought along at a rapid rate. Never elected, never even a candidate, but merely the son of the president, which was neither an office nor a distinction of itself before, he speaks for the administration, for himself and for both together in a manner to suggest that by some invisible writing on the ballot he became the unspoken second choice in the sacred mandate of '38.

Perhaps the congressional committee on income tax evasion was privy to this secret last summer when Congressman Treadway, the non-royalist Republican from Massachusetts, asked in vain that Prince James' income tax returns be subjected to the same searching analysis that those of commoners were given. In a republic the president's son is a man of no more privilege than any other, but a crown prince naturally would be exempt if only for the dignity of his office and the prestige of his house.

Iodine Is Basis Of Treatment to Prevent Goiter

Natural Element Absent in Soil and Drinking Water of State

Madison — "Iodine is the basis of all preventive treatment against goiter," according to the state medical society.

"Wisconsin is in the 'goiter belt' which extends across the northern part of the United States. In this area goiters are prevalent because of the lack of iodine in the soil and drinking water. Fortunately medical science has discovered a method to make up for the absence of this natural element.

"Goiter is one of the preventable diseases and can be prevented by the administration of iodine. Scientific experiments have proved that iodine in tablet form gives absolute protection from the development of simple goiter. At the same time this method of obtaining iodine is inexpensive. Iodine tablets in doses prescribed by the family physician should be given in early childhood this treatment to be started at the age of four years.

Iodized Salt
"When the child does not have access to the iodine tablet method of treatment, iodized salt may be used as a substitute. It may be used safely in children, but should not be given to adults having nodular goiters. It should be remembered however, that one cannot receive the assurance of prevention by this method that one can when tablets are prescribed.

"The normal secretion from the thyroid gland is a compound containing iodine. Iodine in this secretion is as important as iron is to the red blood cells or calcium to the bones. This thyroid secretion is .65 per cent iodine and no other element can take its place. The simple principle has thus been deduced that goiter is due to a deficiency of iodine and all that is necessary to prevent thyroid enlargement, or goiter, is to provide the thyroid with the necessary element. This is the basis of all the work in the prevention of goiter.

"Expectant mothers should receive small doses of iodine during their pregnancy. Iodine is prescribed by the physician during this period to prevent the development of goiter in the baby.

"The amount of iodine needed for the average healthy child when the thyroid is normal is comparatively small. Prevent goiter by including iodine in your diet."

PEDESTRIAN PROBLEM

The problem of traffic control is always with us. As death lists mount, the problem grows increasingly serious. Each municipality has its own. In each, various agencies bend their efforts to find solutions.

In all these efforts, it sometimes appears that too little concern is displayed for the rights of pedestrians. A fundamental of traffic control is that jay-walking must be discouraged. Any campaign stresses that fact.

There is no quarrel with the statement that the pedestrian must cooperate in making the streets more safe. But there is reason for belief that frequently the pedestrian is given too little consideration.

The police departments, charged with traffic law enforcement, want to reduce the number of accidents. Also, they want to keep traffic flowing. The automobile associations, prime movers in all campaigns to increase traffic safety, want to cut down the total of accidents, but they, too, may be interested in speeding up the traffic flow.

The pedestrian, lacking organization, is less vocal. Admittedly he knows less about the problems of traffic regulation than the men whose task it is, less than the experts in the employ of the motor associations. He has ideas, however, and those ideas deserve consideration.

The pedestrian is not so interested in the speeding up of traffic. He wants control lights at crossings timed slowly enough to permit him to get across the street without putting on an uncomfortable burst of speed. He resents the right hand turn into traffic lanes against the red light in those cities where it is permitted, and the chance it offers that he will be run down as he steps off the curb. He believes there should be protection for jay-walkers where city blocks represent unusual distances.

The pedestrian is not an unreasonable fellow, ordinarily. All of us are occasional pedestrians. The pedestrian may lack an organization, now, but that such organization may come is conceivable.

MINISTRY OF NON-EDUCATION

Once more the German Ministry of Education belies its name by curtailing the educational opportunities of its own people. This time an international scientific weekly, Nature, that has offended super-sensitive officials in some way, has been barred from German libraries. Only a few advanced students are permitted to see copies of this publication, their access to it being "secret" and "restricted" so that no one else may risk contamination.

To this move the editors reply that the penalty involved in the withdrawal of Nature from libraries and other institutions "will be felt more by our readers in Germany than by ourselves." It is quite possible that Germany's ban will bring the magazine more readers elsewhere. Such censorship not only deprives the German reader of scientific information. It insults his intelligence and implies that he is unfit to pick his own reading.

HAUGHTY JAPS

Our State Department now has to protest officially to the Japanese government about insults to our flag and citizens and apparently deliberate disregard of American rights and property, since the Panay incident. Some of these incidents, perhaps, are such as may be expected in the confusion of war, but many of them are unnecessary. The army at Shanghai and Nanking especially seems to have run wild, with the commanders making little effort to restrain the troops and even sanctioning their depredations.

The government at Tokyo has promised to send special representatives to the seat of the trouble and look into the matter. It seems doubtful, though, whether there will be much improvement. There are statesmen at Tokyo who like and respect our people, and understand the need of keeping on friendly terms with western nations, but they do not seem to have much authority at the front. The army is virtually its own government. Even in the Japanese capital, arrogance grows with conquest.

The plain truth is that the Japanese consider themselves superior to all other races, whether white or colored, and believe they are stooping when they treat any of us as equals. Such an attitude in high places is naturally reflected by the soldiers more than the civilians. The nature of their work tends to make them insolent. So there will doubtless be many more "incidents."

INCOME

The total national income received by individuals during 1937, as figured by the National Industrial Conference Board experts, was $67,534,000,000. Call it 67½ billions.

That's quite a sizable sum of money, being about 27 billions ahead of the depression low and only about 13 billions short of the 1928 record. And we did so well as that in spite of the growing slump of the last few months.

Just now the national spirit is low, although a slight business improvement from the January level is noticed lately. If we could rise in the next three months as fast as we fell during the last three months of 1937, we should have as good a year as last year, or better.

That is hardly expected now either by business men or statisticians. There are too many uncertain factors. Yet there is general agreement that, if a clear working arrangement could be achieved between business and government, we might forge ahead rapidly.

The cause generally accepted now for the business recession is the old one, familiar to economists—that production of goods outran consumption, or consumption fell behind production, creating an unbalance. In time any such surplus of goods is absorbed and, if the patient is still alive and in reasonably good health, everything goes ahead again. But the longer the crisis lasts, the harder it is to get a new start.

HAPPY MONARCH

The King of Sweden seems to enjoy life more than most kings. There is little of the show business in his routine. He doesn't have to be on exhibition all the time like his royal confrere in Great Britain. His grandsons have a habit of marrying commoners and signing away their rights to the throne, but that doesn't trouble him. Neither does it trouble the nation as the marriage of the Duke of Windsor troubled and shook an empire.

In health, the Swedish monarch must rate high honors. He will be 81 years old next June, but his favorite sport is still the very lively game of tennis which he plays the year round. The people of Sweden raised a fund for their king on his 70th birthday. He gave it all for cancer research. This year there is to be a similar birthday gift for him. He has announced that it will be used to fight rheumatic diseases and infantile paralysis.

Just now he is off on his annual vacation in France and Italy, playing tennis and sponsoring an indoor tennis competition which he hopes may become as popular in its field as the Davis cup matches are in outdoor tennis.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown," does not apply to King Gustav V. His head is more at ease than the heads of the dictators, or of the British and French premiers.

EQUAL RIGHTS

Women themselves, in many cases, are doubtful about the value of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the federal Constitution, on which committee hearings are beginning in Congress. Mrs. William Dick Spurborg, chairman of legislation for the General Federation of Women's clubs, raises some interesting questions about it.

"The amendment," she says, "purports to give equal rights to men and women. The reason I am a non-equal-rights woman is that I do not know what it may lead to. We who have been working for the protection of women through legislative programs for many years are fearful of having that amendment, at one fell swoop, remove all that protection from those we have been working to save."

"The amendment says Congress shall have power to enforce this article. Several practical questions suggest themselves, concerning matters over which the states have had control. Shall Congress be given the power to legislate on marriage, on divorce, on the legitimacy of children? Where would married couples be domiciled—where the husband lives, or where the wife votes? What would happen to contracts, property rights, and so forth? Which of our state laws would have to be abrogated in the event of the passage of this amendment?"

Obviously it is a proposal to be handled cautiously, with due regard to state rights and the effect that federal assumption of authority in this matter would have in the various states.

Opinions Of Others

A STRONGER GENERATION

The word "scout" meant originally one who listened. But it has in its use the world around come to suggest one who having listened is very active in doing. The Boy Scouts are essentially doers. They are not only doing daily good turns to others. They are keeping themselves fit by daily discipline and especially by keeping in touch with the sources of strength in nature beyond the "pavement's end." In the urbanization of population there is more and more need of such vigorous activities as the program of the Boy Scouts offers to the new generation. More than seven million boys and men have had a part in this character-building, citizenship-training program of camping, crafts and woodsmanship in the last twenty-eight years. And as most of them are still boys or youths, they are literally building "a stronger generation" in their own strength, flinging themselves upon the bosom of the eternal mother, like Antaeus in the Grecian myth.

The Scoutmaster is the leader in this interesting constructive game of life. President Roosevelt in his radio message to the scouts said that the strength of this movement for youth "will develop in exact proportion to the support accorded by communities who are interested in preserving our democracy." It might be added that efficiency of the community support will

TO STET

So you don't like our poetry? Well, this time I'll write prose, but if you read sing-songy before you reach its close, don't blame me. I can't help it if my prose starts to rhyme, for my thoughts wax poetic from time to time. There are days when my think-box is utterly flat, and to save me I can't even rhyme cat with rat, but on rare occasions I feel a verse coming on, and then try and stop me! Though my armor I don, somehow the verses will force their way through, and I mail them to Jonah who prints them. Boof Hoof I weep with you, Stet, and with all who must read them. We'll keep on sending poems until some fine day, when we look for "Post-Mortem" — PHT! Vanished! Away!

—The Little Bundle

Your correspondent will undoubtedly pft vanish away, all unexpected, some sunny day. But as long as there are members of the writing fraternity, the column will go plodding on into eternity.

Now she's got me writing that way.

Anyway, Stet seems to have stirred up an argument, and arguments are more darned fun.

It is about time for a revival of the jokes about pun on theatre seats, but for the life of me I can't think of any of them just now. If any of you bright people can remember one, or invent one, or write a poem on the subject, I will appreciate it very much.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE POINT OF VIEW

Age has encroached upon her brow,
And crept into her troubled eyes,
Upon the tree of life, the bough
Will seek its Spring in Paradise.

"How old she is!" we say, and while
We whisper it, her falling breath
Stops, and we see her happy smile
Mirrored upon the face of Death.

Today in the celestial lands,
Serene and beautiful among
The angels, radiantly she stands!
"She has just come!" they say. "How young!"

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Feb. 16, 1928

Traffic control lights for College avenue were defeated by the common council Wednesday evening. The traffic light problem, one of the many which has been hanging fire in the council room since the first of the year, was killed by a vote of 7 to 5.

Drs. J. M. Donovan, T. J. Seiler, H. C. Schultz, and G. N. Ducklow, all of Neenah, have gone to Milwaukee to attend the annual convention of Marquette university dental school alumni at the Milwaukee auditorium this week.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Feb. 20, 1913

"I will not be surprised if the legislature will make an appropriation of $100,000 for good roads at this session," John Conway, who returned last evening from Madison where he has been attending the Good Roads convention, said today.

The Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company is to install an additional generator in its Neenah plant. The additional generator will furnish more power for the Oshkosh line. When cars are underway, there is little light in the cars and it is sometimes necessary for the conductor to light matches to collect fares.

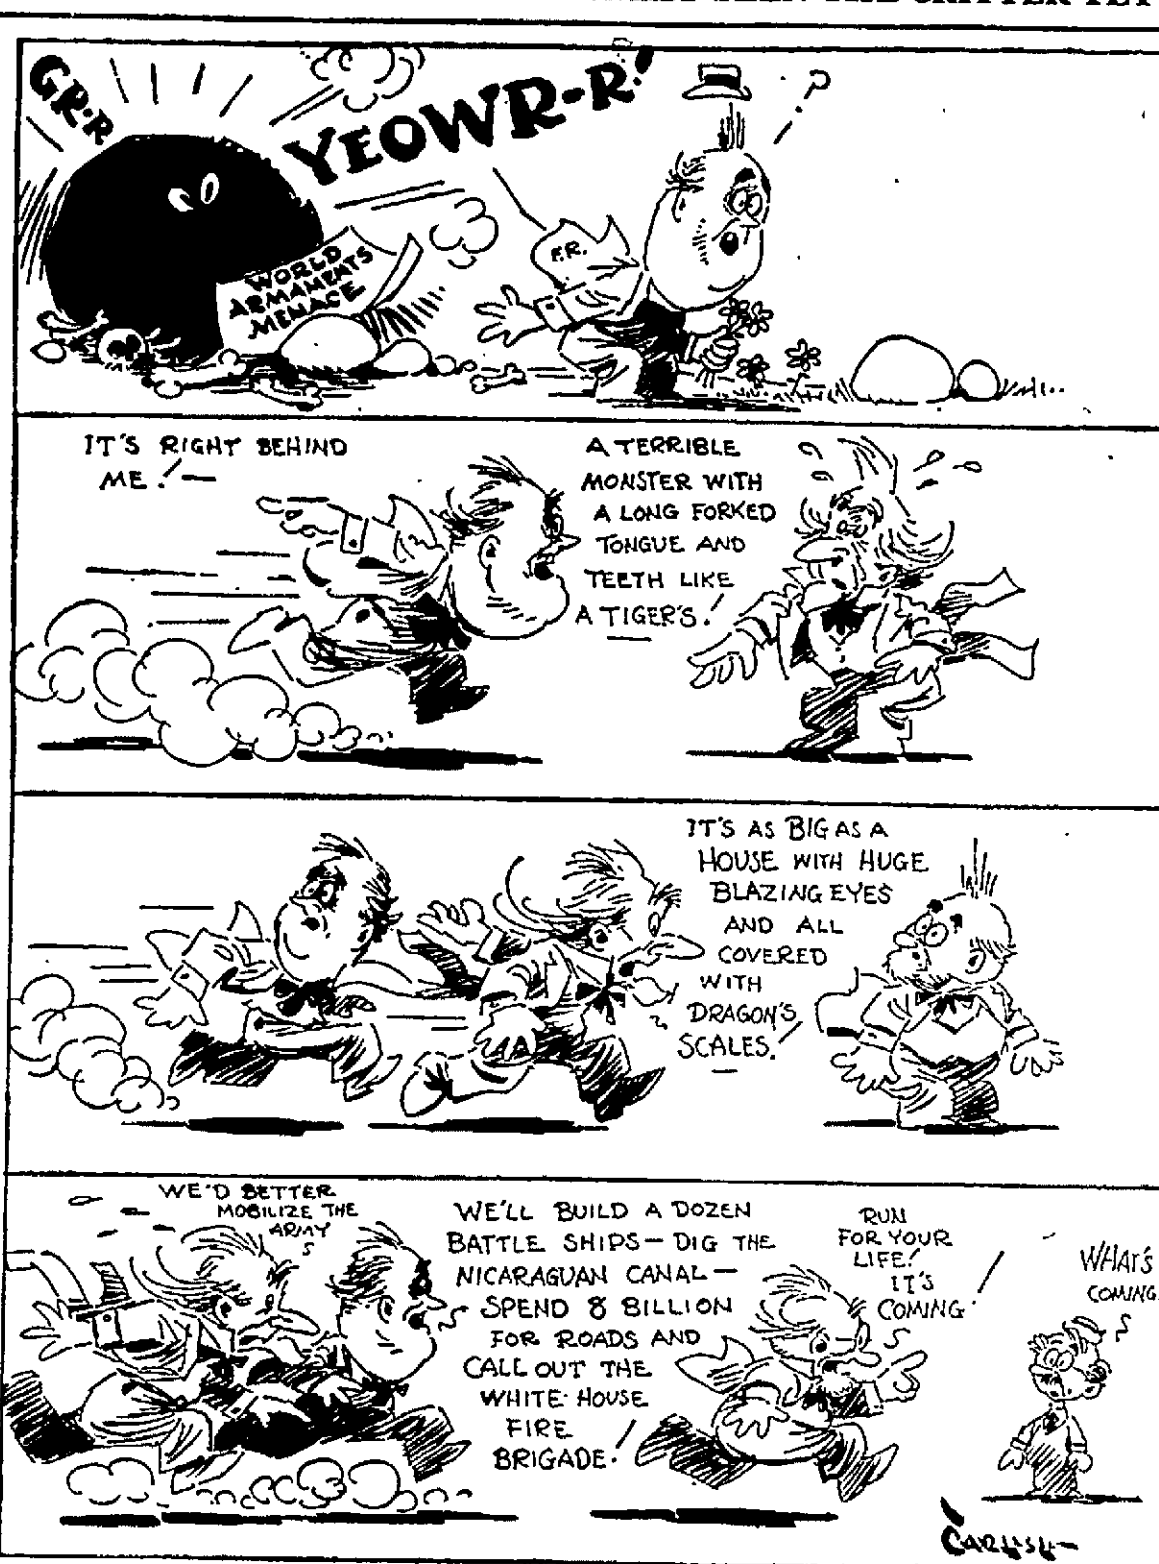

Two military examinations will be held here tonight when First Lieutenant Herman L. Sommers will be examined by Commander W. H. Zuehlke, Captain Hugh E. Pomeroy and Lieutenant George E. Merkel for promotion to captain and Second Lieutenant Frank Reigel by Captain Byron Beveridge and Lieutenants John Voge and Lothar Graef for promotion to first lieutenant.

DENTORS PULL A BONER

In the bushel of propaganda marked "For Immediate Release"

this bit bearing the authorization of the Dental Institute of America somehow caught my hypercritical eye. Describing the unhappy course of events in a case involving a "dead tooth" whatever that may be, perhaps, as the propaganda hints, a tooth with a recently dead nerve, means pulp removed probably, together, the bulletin says:

"But one day when the bodily vitality has been lowered the condition becomes acute, the jaw swells and fever develops. Then the patient is sick, for infection has invaded the bone beyond the root end."

Nothing to get excited about so far, is there? That is, assuming it is not your tooth.

But here's where my long ears pricked up figuratively:

"While the swelling grows worse, the dentist can administer only palliative treatment, for while symptoms increase the disease invaders have the upper hand. After a few days nature builds antibodies in the blood stream, and again the patient gains the upper hand. But not until these antibodies are present in sufficient number to continue the fight."

Well, sir, that's what I'd call darn poor consolation for the victim of the toothache. Without saying so in plain words the dentors who presumably compose the "Dental Institute of America" virtually advise the credulous reader to just try to grin and bear his toothache until the antibodies can take care of it. Of course a dentist with such a conception of surgery would not care to take the chance of giving proper surgical relief in the first "few days" of the suffering from abscess, lest the patient later blame the dentist for any ill effects the neglected abscess might have.

Precisely that attitude inspired the old-time dental quacks who kept patients suffering for days or weeks with "ulcerated" tooth by advising the patients that it would be "dangerous" to drain the abscess by immediate extraction of the tooth while the jaw was all swollen and everything.

The "Dental Institute of America" really represents any body of reputable dentists who ought to appropriate part of the propaganda fund to send a few of their members to some recognized school of dentistry to learn something about the first principles of surgery.

It is a shame that the lay public should be subjected to such propaganda, which looks indeed as though were deliberately intended to undermine the confidence of the layman in the best dental practice of the day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Thiostulphate and Boric Powder
I used your thiostulphate of soda (one part) and boric acid (four parts) powder only a few times in shoes and stockings before I got complete and permanent relief from a long-standing itching, peeling condition of the toes. (H. W.)

Answer—The mixture is a good dusting powder to use in the stockings and in the shoes as prophylactic against foot ringworm, epidermophytosis, athlete's foot.

Fat-Soluble Vitamin D
Does not the use of liquid petroleum or mineral oil interfere with the assimilation of the fat-soluble vitamin D. (R. T. J.)

Answer—Some investigators have reported that it does. One ascribed psoriasis in some cases to prolonged deficiency of vitamin D from the habit of taking liquid petroleum or paraffin oil.

Cataract
Mother and I have taken your iodine ration for three years with marked benefit in freedom from colds and better appetite. Mother had beginning cataracts when she started the iodine ration, according to our oculist, Dr. . . . She also followed the corrective protective diet you suggested and in addition took an optimal ration of vitamins. In six months one eye was perfectly clear and the other much better—attested by Dr. . . . 's final examination. (L. H.)

Answer—I am glad to hear about it. The regimen described does not cure cataract so far as I know. However, it may be beneficial to the general constitution. Glad to send particulars to any reader who asks for them and encloses a three-cent stamped envelope bearing his address.

Your Birthday

"AQUARIUS"

If February 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until noon, from 2 to 4 p. m., and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m.; from 6 to 8 p. m., and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

If you go around with a chip on your shoulder this day you will find plenty of willing hands to knock it off so it might be well to remember the proverb, "discretion is the better part of valor." This ought to be an auspicious day for promotional work of all kinds, because the average person is likely to be a ready listener. Curiosity is apt to be easily aroused; so the inquisitiveness of some of the people you contact, requires your being very guarded in your remarks.

The generosity of some relative or friend is likely to make your day much brighter. You seem destined to benefit through the dominating influence of an open-handed policy of a relation or business firm. Someone may take particular pleasure in trying to tempt you to do something that they know will make you appear ridiculous this day. Married and engaged couples, as well as those engaged in making love, must be willing to listen to and accept any logical excuse that might be offered this day.

If a woman and February 18 is your natal day, you probably love excitement, especially if it comes in the form of an adventure. You are apt to be socially ambitious. With your versatility and charm, the chances are you will attain an enviable position, as a leader in your particular set. Something you have set your heart on having or doing, seemingly will materialize. Patience, with you ceases to be a virtue if you are subjected to unreasonably long delays. Impatience appears to be a characteristic of those born on this date, and at times handicaps them in social and business life, so make it a point to curb it.

As a designer, interior decorator, painter, writer or sales agent your work ought to be appreciated and well paid. Married life is the logical one for you, for congenial companionship is essential to your happiness.

The child born on February 18, generally has either a purely mechanical or an artistic mind. Through a distinctive technique this youngster is likely to attract a great amount of attention.

If a man and February 18 is your natal day, you might be inclined to permit your personal prejudice to sway your business judgment too often. As a lawyer, politician, clergyman, actor, journalist or druggist your life should be happy.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—The first big kick out of a new magazine is feeling it in your hands and looking at the cover and wondering what's inside. There is always an anticipatory zing to wondering what the lead story is about and what the illustrations will be.

You may be disappointed, angered, or merely indifferent when you see it, but, to me at least, that first split-second turning the first page is gratification of high order.

The other day the new issue of a weekly magazine came and the first illustration was a horse race. I don't like stories about horse races, and I turned by. There followed 15 minutes of seeing just who wrote which story and who the illustrators were. To me these go hand in hand. I suppose we all have favorite authors and I read anything they write.

I know I am that way. The name of Stephen Vincent Benet above a fiction story is to this magazine, a thunder an irresistible lure.

Kenneth Roberts is another. Richard Sherman, Ernest Haycox, Katharine Brush and McKinley Kantor are others. I can't pass anything under their signatures.

Kenneth Roberts writes mostly of the Revolutionary period and Indian fighting, and I am a push-over for anything like that. For such matter I like Mark Clark's illustrations. He can portray a wintry forest and a lurking savage better than a man with a camera.

It's a sophisticated tale of this modern world, then John Taggart is your man. For me he draws the most beautiful women in the world. Ernest Haycox is the last word in the world of western novels—pageants of empire building in which you are choked both by alkali dust and honest heart lugs.

Stephen Vincent Benet seems able to write entertainingly on any subject, and McKinley Kantor has a powerful imagination for events of the Civil War. Perhaps his best trick is understatement.

Richard Sherman, who became famous when he wrote "To Mary With Love" is a realist who doesn't hesitate for one minute to let his heroes and heroines bump into tragedy.

There is, perhaps, a reason for my antipathy for stories of horse racing. I used to have to cover racing, and it cost money. It kept me broke when, to be perfectly hon-

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—This is our quarterly report on the progress of our favorite test-tube village, the town of Greenbelt, which was set up by Rex Tugwell to show the country the way to the orderly life.

More particularly this deals with the business cooperative set up with an advance by a foundation established by the late Edward A. Filene, a Boston merchant endowed with the liberalist tendencies of a Minnesotan.

If you will recall from our previous documents on the subject, Greenbelt is the community just outside Washington where ultimately some 850 families will share low cost rents, govern the city according to the dictates of their own conscience, and decide whether or not dogs shall be allowed.

To date only about a third of the dwellings are occupied, others being filled as rapidly as carpenters and plumbers install sash boards and plumbing.

First A Grocery

The community began its cooperative venture by opening a food store (grocery and meat shop). It is a self-help job and its operation was assisted in the early days by an official of a large grocery chain who knew how to do these things.

An ordinary merchant, no doubt, would enjoy the exclusive right to sell food in the 2,000-acre tract over the place. Such is the concession the residents are giving to their food store. To a degree it is a monopoly, but the residents who choose to join in the cooperative venture by buying a membership will get a cutback on the profits.

A gasoline filling station also has been opened, and ultimately the town will open its own beauty parlor and barbershop, drug store with lunch-counter attached, and movie theater. These ventures, however, must await the arrival of enough families to make them self-supporting.

No Price Cutting

Herbert E. Evans, who used to help coach football at Columbia University, is vice president of the Filene endowment known as the Consumers Distribution Corporation, and he was down here recently to see how the organization's first-born was getting along.

From him and from the local management of the cooperative we learned that the organization does not offer cut-rate prices to its customers. A committee already has been appointed to tour Washington stores to see that prices at the Greenbelt food store parallel those in privately operated stores. A can of peas costs about the same as at your corner grocery, but the difference is that at the end of a month members of the co-op are supposed to get a dividend based on the amount of goods they have bought during the month.

The dividend, we were told, runs to about four or five per cent in the case of groceries. Gasoline co-ops, we were told, are supposed to turn about 8 to 15 per cent back to the owner-customers each month. They haven't operated the picture show or the beauty parlor yet, so we can't post you on dividends from hair-raising thrillers and hair-waving operators.

A saving of $2.28 a month on groceries may not mean much to a well-paid executive, but it must be remembered that Greenbelters pay ranges only from $900 a year to $2,200. If you get more you can't live there.

Bachelor Sees 1,000 Movies in Five Years
Columbus, O.—(AP)—Dante Calderaro, 25, and a bachelor, likes movies so well he has attended 1,000 performances in five years, which he thinks makes it a hobby.

Calderaro keeps a record of the pictures he has seen, the amount of money spent to see them and the ones he judges best.

He rates Fredric March as his favorite actor and Claudette Colbert leads his choice of actresses.

He thinks "Les Miserables" is the best picture he has seen and the liked "The Sign of the Cross" so well he saw it six times.

Calderaro's votes for the best acting during 1937 go to March in "A Star Is Born" and Barbara Stanwyck in "Stella Dallas."

Prepare Curtsy List For Court Appearances

London.—(AP)—The list of society queens who will curtsy before King George and Queen Elizabeth four or five months from now is already under consideration.

New Year's day was the day for sponsors' applications to the Earl Cromer, lord chamberlain who has been asked to accept applications received later don't count, and had form to get them in ahead of time.

Those who don't get presented at first request just have to keep on asking—for no waiting list is kept. A woman who wishes to apply for permission to make presentations must herself have been presented and must be married.

Prehistoric Jawbone Boils Away in Water

Folsom, Calif.—(AP)—There may have been a Folsom man rivaling the Pittdown man or Peking man in the history of the early human race, but it appears science will never know.

Prisoners excavating for a new building unearthed a jawbone which some anthropologically minded officials recognized as a prehistoric human relic. Placed in some boiling water for cleaning, the bone was forgotten. When the pot boiled dry the relic was reduced to dust.

I couldn't afford to lose anything. Feeble character. Like the drug addict, I couldn't say no.

Big Navy Plan Is Consistent With Isolation Policy

President's Decision to Build Is Logical, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — President Roosevelt's decision to build up the United States navy to a point which will make it independent of alliances with any foreign power has run into considerable criticism from the pacifists, but, if they will re-examine the evolution of the New Deal over the last few years, they will perceive that Mr. Roosevelt is not only logical but why consistent in what he is doing.

Certainly the folks who have been crying out against internationalism, against "entangling alliances," against cancelling war debts, against "pulling England's chestnuts out of the fire," and against the reciprocity treaties of Secretary Hull can hardly with justification complain if Mr. Roosevelt now insists on following economic nationalism to its logical goal.

The president has been warned by a rather extensive public sentiment, expressed unmistakably during the last few years, that America wants "to go it alone," that high tariffs are necessary for the protection of the American standard of living, and that no loans must be made to foreigners and no help of any kind extended to them because we must "save our own," as the saying goes.

British Navy
So when there is unrelenting in the world requiring military precautions, the administration is stopped from making a working arrangement with the largest navy in the world, namely the British navy, because this, it is argued, may involve us in a war originating in British and not American controversies.

Such a view is wholly logical, too. No offensive and defensive alliance of any kind or "understanding," if the less explicit word is preferred, could possibly exist without corresponding responsibility. The moment America says, in effect, to Great Britain, "we wish to join hands with you to pool our navies in the event of certain contingencies," the British would promptly answer back, "but what of contingencies vital to us?"

So if the United States government does not wish to undertake any obligations of a theoretical character anywhere on the face of the globe in union with any other power, it becomes necessary for America to think in terms of adequate defense from a strictly technical viewpoint of one power against any other single power or combination of possible enemies.

"Now, just work on the arm—I'm savin' this space till the right girl comes along!"

Points of Protection
Few people who know anything about naval science will doubt that, if the attention of the British navy is engaged in the Mediterranean or even in Atlantic operations, the United States might find itself at that very moment involved in protecting the Pacific when, as a matter of fact, American warships would be more than ever necessary for protection in the Atlantic. During the last World War, the United States was the logical place for protection because, when a war is going on among nations bordering the Atlantic, it is essential that American warships be on the alert lest the belligerent powers take undue liberties with neutral shipping.

Unless, therefore, the United States is ready to pay the price of complete stoppage of all commercial trade, including the exchange of goods between North and South America, thus abandoning the sea to whatever navy happens to be operating therein, the chances are the American people would want our navy to police the Atlantic effectively, if for no other reason than to prevent incidents that might lead to our involvement in the war.

Insure Peace
To be on the safe side—that is, to be able to hold our own irrespective of any temporary aid that Britain's navy might extend us—means building up the American navy to the largest strength of any navy in the world. To insure peace—and tary despotism, would not hesitate to make an overnight attack without a formal declaration of war and would not care what previous understandings were reached to limit armament. This is a sad and tragic state of affairs, but to ignore it is to be without realism in 1938.

Alternative Policy
The alternative policy—making working arrangements with the British and French navy and forging broad programs of economic cooperation among the Democracies of the world to protect themselves against the fascist and despotically governed nations—is apparently not wanted by the American people, or at least by a substantial part of the Republican party and by a very sizeable segment of the Democratic party.

International cooperation is frowned on by almost everybody here but Secretary Hull, and the price of isolation and high tariffs is, therefore, a bigger and better navy, the most expensive navy in the world, but nevertheless, in the view of the president, the most effective way to tell Japan that when it comes to looking around at world conditions today, a phrase which President Wilson once used is back again into vogue. It is "force without stint" as a means of making pacifism or non-war effective.

Large Audience Enjoys Colorful Performance by College A Cappella Choir

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN

BLACK-ROBED FIGURES which, after their opening group of songs, emerged from their somber cocoons to become smartly clad young collegians in formal attire, provided an evening of delightful entertainment for a large audience last night at Lawrence Memorial chapel, the occasion being the annual concert of the Lawrence College choir.

Dean Carl J. Waterman, director of the choir, engineered a fine piece of showmanship when he presented the choir first in black robes for the sacred part of the concert and then in gay, vari-colored formals for the women and striking black and white formal attire for the men, for when the curtains parted for the beginning of the second group of selections there was a murmur of admiration and appreciation for the colorful picture which the youthful singers presented, the men's black suits providing a background for the reds, blues, pinks and greens of the girls' dresses.

Perfect harmony, delicate precision and fine expression characterized the chorus' work last night, the large group responding as one to the rise and fall of Dean Waterman's baton as he led it through the somber measures of the sacred selections as well as the lighter numbers and the operatic pieces.

Particularly suited to a capella singing were the selections in the opening group, two of them being in Latin, "Miserere mei, Deus" by Gregorio Allegri and "O magnum mysterium" by Tomas Luis de Victoria. Others in this group were "In the Lord doth my soul rejoice" by Balakireff, "Ye are not of the flesh" by Bach, "It is a good thing to give thanks" by Shvedoff and "Sing we merrily unto God our strength" by J. S. Bach.

Full organ tones characterized the opening number in the second group, "Say thou lovest me" by Noble Cain, and especially well received was "Song of the Pedlar" by C. Lee Williams. Others in this group were "Music, when soft voices die" by Dickinson and "A June Moonrise" by Eric De Lamar, closing selections being two Negro spirituals, "Let us cheer the weary traveler" by R. Nathaniel Dett and "Tell me, where was thou" by Noble Cain. As an encore the choir sang another spiritual, "Little David Play on Your Harp."

Program Varied
A note of variety was injected into the concert when, for its final group, the choir was accompanied by Donald Gerlach at the piano. Stirring choruses from "The Yeomen of the Guard" by Sir Arthur Sullivan were sung with vigor and color, the singers indicating their enjoyment and appreciation of the clever lyrics by their facial expressions and an added note of enthusiasm in their voices. An arrangement of "Drink to Me of the Thine Eyes" followed this group and the concert closed with the chorale and finale from "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg" by Richard Wagner, its crashing majestic tones providing a fitting climax to the evening's performance.

In spite of the fact that the choir had no guest artist to vary its concert last night, there was sufficient variety in the program itself to not only avoid monotony but to sustain keen interest until the final note.

Prayer Day Observance Began in 1887

THE WORLD Day of Prayer which is observed by women of many Protestant denominations on the first Friday in lent, not only in Appleton but throughout the world, is an outgrowth of a movement started in 1887 by Presbyterian women in the United States who came together at the suggestion of Mrs. Darwin R. James, president of the women's board of home missions of the Presbyterian church, to pray for home missions.

Interest in the day of prayer increased until through the efforts of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody and Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, the foreign mission forces chose a day for united prayer in the early nineties, and in 1920 church women of many denominations in Canada and the United States united in prayer, the first Friday in lent being chosen as the Day of Prayer for Missions.

The Day of Prayer for Missions became the World Day of Prayer in 1927 at the request of women from many lands, and in 1936 Christians from more than 50 countries observed this day together.

The first interdenominational day of prayer was held in Appleton in 1926 under the auspices of an interdenominational group of women. This year the service will be held March 4 at Memorial Presbyterian church and is open to all women of Appleton.

Reading Club Hears Illustrated Talk on Art of Making Rugs

Only 2 per cent of the Oriental rugs sold in the United States are Persian, John Yonan told the Reading club when it met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. R. Whitman, 114 S. Alton court, to hear his lecture on "The Art of Persian Rug Making."

Loom productions of Turkey, Caucasus, central Asiatic lands, India, China and sometimes even rugs produced in Greece and other Balkan states are all labeled "Oriental," he said, but none of the craftsmen of those countries has been able yet to surpass or even approach the Persians in the technique of the loom. All of the neighboring countries got their inspiration and learned the craft at the feet of Persian artisans, he declared.

Four things that go into the making of a good rug, Mr. Yonan said, are material, color, design and texture, and the Persians excel in all of these.

Persia, he explained, is the home of all the animals that yield materials for textile fabrics—the camel, the sheep, the goat and the cat—erpillar. The camel is important not only in furnishing fleece which in excellent weaving material but also in transporting the product from remote and inaccessible regions to the markets of the world.

Mr. Yonan illustrated his lecture with motion pictures of rug making and also showed motion pictures taken by him about a year ago at the Karabala mosque in Arabia. His pictures were the first ever taken inside the mosque.

35 Persons Attend Reserve Meeting

Thirty-five persons, including Appleton and Outagamie county reserve army officers, Wisconsin National Guard officers and enlisted men from Appleton, Neenah and Menasha, last night attended the meeting of Appleton chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States at Hotel Appleton.

The program featured five reels of war department motion pictures, the principal subject being defense against gas. The picture showed that with proper training in use of the gas mask and in defense against gas soldiers lose their fear and can perform their duties with little trouble.

These also were reports from the various committee chairmen, principally from Major A. O. Kuehnstedt, who outlined the National Defense week activities and from Captain Raymond P. Dohr who discussed plans for C. M. T. C. enrollment this spring.

Major Kuehnstedt mentioned the talks being given by officers before clubs and groups in the county and that he was scheduled to talk over the Appleton radio station at 6:15 Friday evening. Captain Dohr reported that C. M. T. C. enrollments already are being received although no announcement has been made by the war department as to the number of boys to be trained.

Captain Helm Hunsner, chairman of the marksmanship committee, reported that an effort was being made to organize a chapter pistol and rifle teams for the state convention at Sheboygan in May. He invited

94 Per Cent of Wisconsin Farmers Own Automobiles

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington
Correspondent

Washington—Rural America rides to market, to meeting, and a visiting, and in common with the rest of the country, Mr. and Mrs. American Farmer like to travel by automobile.

In Wisconsin, percentage of car ownership among farm families averages 94 per cent, second only to that of 97 per cent in California, North Dakota, and Kansas, according to tabulations of a survey of 17,000 farm families in 64 counties made by the department of agriculture bureau of home economics, under direction of Dr. Louise Stanley.

Car ownership the country over of all non-relief native white farm families interviewed averaged a little over 82 per cent. Wisconsin's percentage of car ownership was the same as that of Illinois, Iowa, and Michigan, all about 94 per cent.

The counties surveyed in 1935-1936, were representative type-of-farming regions in all parts of the country.

Many Buy Used Cars
Of all families interviewed the country over, 7 per cent reported buying new cars, and a little over 12 per cent reported buying used cars. Or, for each 1,000 families, nearly five used cars were purchased as compared with nearly three new cars, the farm family paying an average of $285 for the used cars as against an average of $739 each for new cars.

Only in California did the white farm families purchase more new than used cars. In most of the other areas studied, twice as many used as new cars were bought.

Car theft may be responsible in part for this buying pattern, according to Dr. Stanley.

"However, it is probable that the American farm family is more ready to take a car that does not quite meet its dreams than to be without a car. Better to buy a second-hand car as a means of transportation, than to do without the social contacts, and the aid to farm business that a family car brings."

Percentages of car ownership among farm families in other sections interested officers to report at the armory on the second Monday and Thursday of each month or get in touch with him for special instruction.

tions of the country were 91 per cent in Oregon and Washington; 83 per cent in New Jersey; 86 per cent for Colorado, Montana, and South Dakota; and 88 per cent for Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Appleton Men Attend Sessions of Congress

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—George Schmidt, Appleton clothier, and William Roemer, Appleton lumberman, are visiting in Washington this week.

Roemer plans to go to New York city for a lumberman's convention. Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton took them to the senate and house galleries to watch the legislators in action, and gave them letters permitting them to be shown through more of the White House than the tourists see, and to be shown the manufacture of paper money and postage stamps, not to mention reams of United States bonds, at the bureau of printing and engraving.

Indianapolis—A practical joker gave Patrolman Freeman Smock food for thought—but left him hungry.

Smock took his lunch pail to a quiet spot a state police headquarters but found a fellow officer had soldered on the lid. His lunch hour was up by the time he opened the pail.

Is This the Reason You Are Constipated?

If you're wondering why your bowels don't work right—stop and think about what you eat. Bread, meat, eggs and potatoes. All good nourishing foods—but all concentrated, lacking in "bulk." And you need "bulk!" Some food that forms a soft, spongy mass in the bowels—helps them move.

If it's this lack of "bulk" that's causing your constipation, Kellogg's All-Bran is just what you need. It soaks up water and softens like a sponge. And this soft mass helps your bowels move. In addition, All-Bran gives you Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B. Eat this crisp crunchy cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and enjoy happier days. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Wife's Success Depends On Way She Handles Mate

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I have many friends who complain bitterly of the trouble their husbands make them by their carelessness about things, scattering papers on the floor, dropping cigarette ashes on the rugs, leaving the bathroom a wreck, and so on. Also, my friends bawl out their husbands if they are late for a meal and make a hot comeback if their husbands are gruff to them when answering a question. That always brings on a quarrel, and these husbands and wives live in a perpetual state of being sore with each other. I am married to one of these careless, scattering husbands also, but I take a different tack with him. I pick up after him without ever saying a word. When he comes home grumpy I feed him and let him alone. In a little while he snaps out of it and is pleasant and agreeable. When he wants to go anywhere I grab my hat and go, whether or not I want to, and we get along without a ruffle. Maybe my way of managing a husband isn't the best, but it seems to work out pretty well. A WIFE.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer: Mr. Charles Schwab said in a recent interview that his great success was based not on his knowledge of steel, but on his knowledge of how to handle men. Every wife who makes a success of marriage could say the same thing. It rests on her knowledge of how to handle men.

There are no perfect husbands. No reasonable husbands. No husbands who just fit their wives little cut-paper patterns of what they want in a husband. All husbands have their peculiarities, their faults, their little cantankerous ways, that no wife can ever cure or alter. And, likewise, they have their little pet prejudices, their little vanities, their little weakness to which a wife can appeal and through which she can manage them if she is willing to take the time and trouble and make the effort to do so.

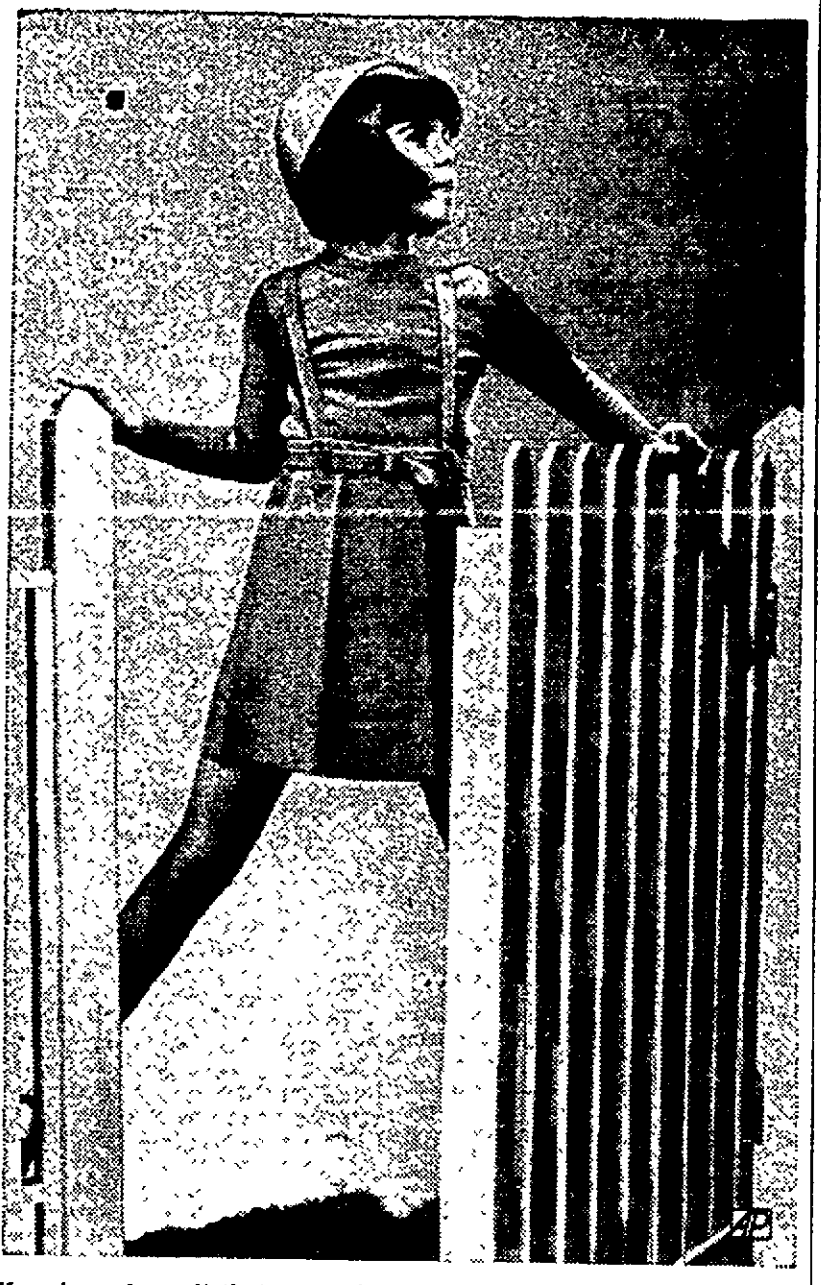

The amazing thing is that so many women are too stupid to realize this, and so many other women would rather batter out their brains knocking up against a stone wall than walk around it, would rather fight with their husbands than use a little diplomacy in avoiding an issue.

It takes far less time, for instance, to sweep up cigarette ashes than it does to have a fight with your husband over dropping them on the rugs. It isn't as nerve-wearing and exhausting to clean up the bathroom after him as it is to have a scene with him over the way he left it. If a woman's husband loves to smoke, isn't it far better to have smoke get in the curtains than to have her get in his hair?

If a woman knows that her husband comes home tired from the office, why can't she refrain from putting him through a questioning, or telling him all the bad news she can think of until he is rested and refreshed and in a mood to hear it. If she knows he simply eats up flattery, why can't she have enough sense to feed him on it instead of always finding fault and belittling him until he goes out and hunts up some other woman who will jolly him? There is no other branch of study that so well pays a wife as learning how to handle her husband.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am an elderly widower with one married son, and am about to make my will. I have worked hard for what money I have and I want to leave it so that my son and my grandchildren will never come to want. But the trouble is my son's wife is so extravagant and wasteful that I know she will throw it all away if she ever gets her hands on it. It is because of this that my son has never been able to accumulate any thing, has always been in debt and

India's Most Holy City

Half a million pictures and statues of gods, goddesses, heroes and demons! That is what we are told Benares contains, and there is much more in it besides. It is the most holy city in India, and it stands beside the most holy river in the country.

Street scene in Benares, India's most holy city.

Benares is the home of about 250,000 people, not counting vast throngs which visit it through the year. It is older than the city of Rome and has been visited by more pilgrims than Mecca by Moslems, or Jerusalem by Christians. There are about 2,000 temples in Benares, also many holy shrines. In addition to the people who throng the street, certain kinds of animals go about loose. I am thinking of holy cows, holy apes and monkeys. These animals have little, if any, fear of men. They are guarded by custom, and Hindus believe they are performing a good deed when they give them food. Sometimes a cow or monkey gets something to eat at a fruit or vegetable stand.

Many temples are alongside the Ganges. This great river has a total length of more than 1,500 miles, and every foot of every mile is supposed to be holy. Rising as a fast-flowing stream in the Himalaya mountains, the Ganges flows past Benares and empties into the Bay of Bengal. In the course of thousands of years, it has built up a great delta, a delta with an area of 32,000 square miles.

As the years have gone by, millions of pilgrims have bathed in the Ganges after reaching Benares. Hindus believe the waters of this river wash away their sins. They also believe that if they die at Benares they are sure to find bliss after death.

Some customs and beliefs of the Hindus seem strange, even foolish, to us. We must remember, however, that the religion is not entirely that way. Some poems in the holy books are of great beauty. Here is the meaning of one of them: "Many-colored Dawn! Daughter of Heaven! Young and white-robed, come forth with your purple steeds. Bright, glowing, rose-red Dawn, show the travels of your road, and the cattle their new pastures. Open the gates of the morning, and awaken the singing birds."

Secondary Double Bid Is Useful

BY ELY CULBERTSON

There is one type of bid with which most players are entirely unfamiliar, yet which is highly valuable in many situations. I refer to the delayed take-out double. On innumerable occasions a player's holding will not justify an immediate double for a take-out. (Let us call this player East.) If North and South stop bidding at a very low level it becomes evident that West must have some strength and with that discovery East should not hesitate to reenter the auction. Let us consider a typical hand and bidding sequence:

North dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 10 6
♥ 3
♦ A K J 6
♣ A 8 2

WEST
♥ A Q 6 5 3
♦ 10 7
♣ 10 5

EAST
♠ K Q 3
♥ 9 4
♦ Q 9 5 2
♣ A J 5 4

SOUTH
♠ J 8 5 4
♥ K 10 7
♦ 8 4
♣ K Q 7 3

The bidding:

North 1 diamond East 1 no trump South 1 no trump West Pass

It is with East's possible course of action, after North's pass to one no trump, that we are concerned. Obviously, East can pass and thus avoid any risk. Moreover, he is justified in feeling that he may pick up a couple hundred points by defeating the opponents' contract. But if East adopts this course he is passing up an excellent bet. What he should do is double! He has a very fair hand, including one sure diamond stopper and a likelihood of two stoppers. Although a double is technically of the take-out variety, it carries a strong implication to partner that he should leave in the double if he feels that there is a reasonable chance to defeat one no trump. It is this feature of the delayed double that is its strongest point.

Consider West's hand in this particular deal. It contains a good heart suit and nothing outside. Yet West's proper response to East's delayed double is a pass, most emphatically not a two heart bid. If the doubled no trump is allowed to stand West can reasonably expect to run five of his six hearts. (It is highly unlikely that East would have doubled with a singleton heart.) West should bear in mind that East did not double one diamond, therefore there is no ground for the hope that game can be made in hearts. But there is excellent reason for feeling that one no trump may be severely penalized. If North passes, it will be noted that East's delayed double pays splendid dividends. Good defense, involving a low heart opening on West's part, will hold North-South to a maximum of four tricks. If North decides to rescue with two diamonds, East can double again, this time, of course, a straight penalty double, and although this is a better contract for North-South, it, too, will be defeated 500 points.

I commend this delayed, or secondary, double to readers' attention.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

GUESTS OBLIGATIONS

Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain more than one way in which a guest of honor may repay her hostess for this special courtesy to her. I don't think I shall be able to give a party in her honor for some time.

Answer: You can show your appreciation by making her any small gift or sending her flowers on the day of her party, or by showing her whatever kindness that happens to come within your ability. It is never necessary that a party be returned with a party. You can, in the words of the Boy Scouts, "Do a good deed," without returning a favor with one that precisely matches it.

Dear Mrs. Post: Not long ago we had "open house" for our friends, the occasion celebrating our wedding anniversary and welcoming them to our new home. Are we expected to return each and every call made on that day, or is it the duty of these visitors to call again, the second time being considered a "party call"?

Answer: If your party was an afternoon tea, then you owe each one of these people a visit. If it was an evening party of any kind, then they owe you a "party call." As a matter of fact, "party calls" are seldom made.

Best to Ignore Children Who are Balky, Fatigued

BY ANGELO PATRI

"What in the world is the matter with you, Tommy?"

Tommy stopped howling long enough to wait out, "You put out the light and I wanted to put it out."

"All right. There's no need to howl about it. Put out that one."

"No. I want daddy to put it out."

"That's silly. Come along to bed."

"I don't want to go to bed."

"Very well. Sit up. We are going straight to bed." And mother marched upstairs leaving Tommy sitting on the floor whining. As soon as he heard his mother's bedroom door shut he was up like a flash and into her room. "I do want to go to bed, but I don't want you to undress me."

"I don't want to undress you. Undress yourself. I'm going to bed."

Tommy sat down on the floor, and pulled off his shoes and one stocking. "I want you to undress me the rest."

"All right. I will. But mind, if you start a fuss I'll leave you right where you are and not go back to you. I'm tired of your nonsense."

"No. No nonsense. I'm tired. I want daddy to put on my pajamas."

"No you don't young man. I have been listening to you and I'm about fed up. If I hear another word out of you I'm going to spank you. You make up your mind what it is you want and get to bed. Quick."

"All right, daddy. I want a drink."

Daddy obligingly brought the drink. "No. Let mother hold the glass." Right there daddy's patience snapped and he threw the glass of water full in Tommy's face. Tommy gasped and sputtered and straightened up. His mother put dry pajamas on him and he climbed into bed whimpering under his breath. Mother and father dropped into bed too exhausted to say another word. What ailed Tommy?

Breathing Important To Beauty

BY ELSIE PIERCE

We seldom think of the simple business of breathing in relation to beauty. We take breathing pretty much for granted, because we all breathe and that's that! The fact is that we humans are lax even in the matter of breathing. We don't take deep breaths. We don't fill our lungs with good, clean fresh air. We take shallow breaths. We never worry about stepping up the oxygen content. Yet we know that the brightness of our eyes, the clarity of our skins, the health of that whole system we call the body depends upon the blood stream and the blood stream and oxygen are kin.

What more do we want than the assurance of physicians, beauticians, voice training specialists that there's a right and wrong way even in the matter of breathing and that the right way makes for health, beauty, a pleasant voice, a firmer throat, a pleasant disposition. It stimulates the appetite, it aids digestion, it acts as blood tonic.

Breathing Exercises

Try this before a wide open window. First, breathe out expelling any stale air left in the lungs. Then take a deep breath mentally counting up to seven. Breathe out to the same count. Repeat.

Do this slow breathing exercise when walking in the open air. See how high you can count while you breathe in and out. Feel your entire chest cavity filling with fresh ozone. Isn't it invigorating? Isn't it refreshing? Make an hour's walk a day a habit. Chest expansion is good and good for you and what is more it is right in line with the spring silhouette.

Having mastered the deep breathing exercise try this for throat firming. Press one finger against one nostril and breathe in through the other, so that throat muscles stretch. Hold breath for a second. Change finger to other side of nose and exhale through opposite nostril. Alternate. Repeat ten times.

My complete booklet "Reduce by Exercise" (Booklet 102) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, c/o this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

Hussner Explains Need for Defense

Reserve Officer Is Speaker At Meeting of Kaukauna Rotarians

Kaukauna—The necessity for a national defense program in the United States was the theme of Captain Helm Hussner, Appleton, who spoke at the noon meeting yesterday of the Rotary club at Hotel Kaukauna. A middle course between the optimist who refuses to believe we will ever fight again and the pessimist who sees conflict as inevitable was urged by Captain Hussner.

"Today we are involved in economic difficulties which detract our attention from changing world problems about us," Hussner said. "It is time we awoke to analyze the situation and to make provision against the aggressiveness of other nations."

New London Cage Squad to Invade Kaukauna Friday

Kaws Will be Out to Avenge 28 to 22 Defeat in Earlier Game

Kaukauna—Tomorrow night, Coach Paul E. Little's eagles will swing again into conference play here with a tilt against New London at the high school gymnasium. The visitors, in fourth place with a record of four wins and six defeats, are the only team the Kaws have a chance to pass in the conference standings. At present the Kaws are in fifth place with a record of two wins and seven losses. Games with Clintonville next Friday and Neenah on March 4 will complete the Kaukauna schedule.

The only real practice session for tomorrow's encounter will be held today, as Little gave the squad a day off yesterday after the fast game with Shawano Tuesday. A light drill on free throws tomorrow will finish preparations.

The Kaws will be out to avenge a 28 to 22 defeat at New London earlier in the season. In this game Kaukauna, after trailing for three quarters, tied the score as the last period began, but fell behind.

The team did not miss Carl Giordana, regular guard now out for two weeks, as much as might be expected in the Shawano game, due to the way in which Don Bisek came through. Bisek, who first showed to advantage in the game

The Kaws are about due to dodge the succession of close defeats which have followed them all season and turn the tables on someone. A normal game by the Kaws and an even share of the breaks will make the Bulldogs their victim.

Variety Show Set For This Evening

Pupils of Seymour and Rural Schools Will Take Part

Seymour—The Music Activity club will present its 1938 Variety show beginning at 8 o'clock Thursday evening in the high school gymnasium. Participating in this show are pupils from the Black Creek, Nichols, Isar, Pine Grove, Maple Lawn, Blue Star, Woodland, Sunny Valley and Seymour schools. Adult groups appearing on the program are Sam Knox, old-time fiddler, Philip Eck's German band, the old-style square dancers from Cicero, the Litzkow sisters, and Finkle and Boyden, Dr. R. C. Finkle, local entertainer, will be master of ceremonies. A public address system will be installed for the occasion.

The boxing show, which is scheduled to take place in the high school study hall after the main show, or about 10 o'clock, is under the direction of Paul Lofthus, local high school athletic coach. Mr. Lofthus promises at least four, and perhaps five, bouts. All participants are local boys. Proceeds of this entertainment will go into the treasury of the Music Activity club, composed of parents and friends of the Seymour High school band, orchestra, glee club and chorus members, to be used to carry on the work of this organization. The club assists the various musical groups in the purchasing of uniforms and robes, and in helping them to attend the district music contest held in May of each year. No money drive will be made this year as in the last two years. Club officers hope that the proceeds of the show will be sufficient to meet the expenses of the organization for this year.

Kaukauna—The Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, Court No. 536, met last night at the home of Mrs. Fred Mayer. Cards were played and prizes won by Mrs. Dorothy Brill and Mrs. Marcelle Nyles.

Colder Weather May Create New Traffic Hazards

Half Inch of Rain Falls in Appleton Area; Streets
Glazed With Ice

Unseasonal rain that started early this morning and measured half an inch at 9 o'clock threw a glaze over streets and highways today, slowing and endangering traffic. If forecasts of colder weather for tonight in Appleton and vicinity materialize, driving conditions will be more hazardous.

Snow is predicted for this area tonight and tomorrow by the Milwaukee weather bureau. At 10 o'clock this afternoon the temperature atop the Post-Crescent building was 34 degrees.

The Milwaukee motor club reported this morning that conditions north of Green Bay and in the vicinity of Oconto already were bad. Oconto had a sleet storm and pedestrians were using ice grippers on their shoes. Snow was reported at Wabeno and Wausau.

Car tires spun on icy streets and pedestrians slipped gingerly along slippery sidewalks in Appleton today. The slick roads were feared by neither the Wisconsin Telephone company nor the Wisconsin Michigan Power company reported damage to lines.

Water on Highways
Most roads in the southern part of the state were wet, and some were covered with water to a depth of two inches. Heavy snow was predicted by meteorologist Frank Coleman of Milwaukee for the eastern and southern portions of the state, with generally lower temperatures.

The state highway department reported early this afternoon that highways were especially dangerous north of Eau Claire, Wisconsin Rapids, and Stevens Point.

At Neenah a section of the telephone system was crippled for several hours this morning when a cable leading into a manhole between the post office and Kimberly school was wetted by rain. Several hundred telephones were affected. The cable was dried out and reinstalled by noon.

County highway crews were busy today spreading sand on icy spots on the highways and draining water. With the temperature on or near the freezing mark during the day, a thin coating of ice covered the roads. Frank Coleman, Appleton highway commissioner, urged motorists to drive carefully.

Place Cinders on Streets
Street department workmen were sent out early today to throw cinders and rock salt on hills and intersections in the city. Most of the work was completed at noon today. Crews were assigned to opening frozen catch basins so the water could find outlets.

The Milwaukee Motor club announced today its new teletype system linking it with motor clubs nationally was in operation for an interchange of highway condition reports. Road conditions throughout Wisconsin will be received via radio and from motor clubs and highway bureaus, the club reported.

For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the lowest temperature in the city was 15 above, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Miami and New Orleans reported 78 degrees yesterday, highest in the nation. Havre, Mont., had 28 below.

Highways are Slippery In Lower Michigan Area

Detroit—The freak winter of 1938 struck from a new angle today and motor traffic throughout lower Michigan was virtually paralyzed in a freezing rain that made streets and highways slippery.

Rain and freezing temperatures were reported throughout the lower peninsula.

In Detroit eight bus passengers suffered minor injuries when the vehicle skidded into a telephone pole.

A Flint ambulance, called to assist occupants of an automobile involved in an accident, was wrecked when it skidded on the pavement.

Detroit-bound buses from Chicago were from 60 to 90 minutes late after encountering icy conditions in the Irish Hills area, about 40 miles west of the city.

Scouts of Troop 8 Hear Talk on Indian Relics

Senate Asked to Decide if New York Or Wisconsin Leads as 'Cheese State'

Washington—New York and Wisconsin are competing for honors as the nation's leading "cheese state," and calling upon the senate to judge.

Senator Duffy (D-Wis.) poked fun at a leaflet sent to all senators Tuesday that New York was the nation's leader in the "production of three fine cheeses."

This notice, distributed by Senators Wagner and Copeland of New York, announced cheese from their state would be served as dessert in the senate restaurant yesterday.

Duffy said he thought senators should know that Wisconsin produced more cheese than all the other 47 states combined. On March 7, he said, Wisconsin cheese would be served.

Majority Leader Barkley asked whether limburger would be served, reminding Duffy rules prohibited adjournment of the senate for more than three days at a time.

It was cheese that caused Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) to interrupt Duffy extolling the extent of Wisconsin's cheese industry.

A bill cancelling two and a half billion dollars of Reconstruction Finance corporation assets was under discussion.

"Does not the senator think," Vandenberg inquired, "that the RFC is the biggest cheese of all?"

250 Northeastern Dog Club Members Hear Captain Judy

'Calling a Man a Dog' Is
Topic of Talk by Chicago Authority

More than 250 dog lovers attended the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club gathering at the Conway hotel last night and heard Captain Will Judy, dog authority and publisher of Dog World magazine, discuss "Calling a Man a Dog."

A trained Doberman-Pinscher, owned by James Kimberly, Neenah, thrilled the audience with a performance unequalled in this section, according to dog owners, and "did everything but talk" when commanded.

Dr. John E. Rogers, Oshkosh, president of the club, briefly outlined the objectives of the group and new memberships were received. The next meeting of the club will be held at Oshkosh Mar. 15, he announced.

Captain Judy in discussing the intelligence of dogs said: "If a man calls me Judy, and we have all been called one at one time or another, I feel honored for there is no animal more intelligent, loyal and unselfish than a good dog."

Friends For Children
He strongly urged parents to get a young dog and bring it up with their children. "The dog's good qualities will be reflected in the child," he said, "and the child will learn kindness and obedience from the animal."

Captain Judy professed interest in the newly formed Kennel club and said Wisconsin climate should help in the breeding of good animals. Its fresh air and cold weather will develop the good points of a dog and give owners a chance to win many prizes at shows.

"However," the speaker maintained, "whether your dog is a pedigree animal and cost $100 or a plain mutt, he should be given the same treatment and the same kind of home. Many so called mutts have been famous for their intelligence and have lived useful lives."

Used to Help Blind
The Chicago man spoke briefly of the training school for "seeing eye" dogs at Morristown, N. J. and said 90 dogs were graduated from the school this year. All of them have places with blind persons who use the animals to replace their eyes.

Dr. L. H. Dillon was in charge of arrangements for the meeting and supervised an informal gathering following the regular session at the hotel. Questions of interest to fanciers and breeders were answered by Captain Judy at the gathering.

Represented at the meeting were the cities of Two Rivers, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Clintonville, Berlin, Appleton, Green Bay, New London, Kaukauna, Fond du Lac, Manitowish and Amherst.

Cars Damaged, Drivers Uninjured in Collision

New London—Slippery pavement caused a collision between cars driven by L. J. Buchholz and Herbert Marasch of this city late yesterday afternoon on S. Pearl street between Hancock street and Beacon avenue. Both machines were damaged, but neither driver injured.

It Is Said..

That Carl J. Becher's faith in the honesty of the average man again was justified when he received a letter from a Little Chute man asking how much it would cost to replace a street sign. The man said in his letter that he had broken a sign on Wisconsin avenue when his car slipped on an icy pavement Jan. 11 and offered to pay damages.

YOUR Income Tax

DEDUCTION FOR INTEREST
Amounts paid or accrued within the taxable year 1937 as interest on indebtedness are deductible, with certain exceptions, from gross income in determining net income. Such items include interest on borrowed money to defray personal expenses, and on money borrowed for the purchase of real or personal property. If a person owes money on a lien or mortgage note on his home, the amount of the interest may be deducted. Indebtedness, however, need not be evidenced by lien, judgment, or mortgage to make the interest on it deductible. Frequently indebtedness is evidenced only by a note.

Interest paid on indebtedness incurred in the purchase of obligations (other than obligations of the United States issued after September 24, 1917, and originally subscribed for by the taxpayer), the interest upon which is wholly exempt from Federal income tax, is not deductible. Interest paid on loans on life insurance policies is deductible provided the amount of the loan is not used for the purposes previously referred to in this paragraph.

Interest paid on behalf of a friend or relative where there is no legal obligation on the part of the payor is not deductible. In such cases the amount is the same as a gift.

As interest paid is deductible, so interest received is taxable. All such amounts, including interest received on bank and savings deposits, must be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income.

Wilson 7th Graders

Present Talent Show

A talent show was held last week for pupils of the seventh grade at Wilson Junior High school. Betty Richter opened the program with a piano selection and Betty Pogratt followed with a tap dance.

A reading, "Janice Wanted a Watch," was presented by Virginia Heberg and Betty Finger played a violin solo. Another reading, "Life of Benjamin Franklin," was presented by Adeline Krueger.

Keith McCluskey then sang "I Double Dare You" playing his own accompaniment on the guitar. A news review was presented by Robert Olson and George Krueger presented a violin solo accompanied by Ila Stueck on the piano. Phyllis Luebke and Marian Baer sang "Rosalee" and a poem was recited by Ruth Robertson. Quotations from "Poor Richard" were given by Ralph DeDecker and Aaron Defending. A piano solo, by Ethel Kuchel, ended the program.

PLANT MUSKIES IN WISCONSIN WATERS

In hidden lakes and far-away streams like the one shown in this picture, the state of Wisconsin plants millions of young fish annually. The state employee in the picture is planting muskies, Wisconsin's most prized species.

State Prepares for Big Fish Propagation Year

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—The approach of spring which is bringing visions of fishing trips to Wisconsin sportsmen is also bringing about preparations for another big fish propagation season for the fisheries division of the Wisconsin conservation department. Not content with Mother Nature's relatively slow efforts, Wisconsin has inaugurated an artificial fish propagation program in recent years which is supplementing natural production and making two fish grow where one grew before.

According to plans announced by H. W. McKenzie, director of the department, and submitted to his superiors, the conservation commission, the state this year hopes to exceed last year's record breaking program, in which more than one billion fish of 17 varieties were planted in Wisconsin's thousands of lakes and streams, and at a lower cost than any of 36 other states which have similar projects.

Wisconsin Leads

National leadership has been attained by Wisconsin in artificial fish raising, for a billion fish is a lot of fish in the language of any fisherman. Wisconsin through November planted exactly 1,094,125,186 fish, ranging from the aristocratic, finned and battling muskellunge to the pike and pickerel which will entice the less intrepid fisherman in 1938 and following seasons.

During 1937 Wisconsin stepped up its facilities in 32 state hatcheries, and turned out a larger hatch than ever before in its 70 years of artificial propagation, according to B. W. Webster, head of the fisheries division of the conservation department.

And, according to H. W. McKenzie, "with increased production facilities in the form of two new hatcheries and the acquisition of additional equipment, rearing ponds and a larger personnel, it is planned to exceed even this number in the 1938 season."

This year there will be at least

33, and possibly several more, hatcheries in production. The Clam Lake establishment was used only part of last season, while a new hatchery is being completed at Winter dam. Last week the commission voted to contribute toward another at Lakewood, in Oconto county.

The collection of spawn will be begun during the fish runs this spring, while planting will be begun as soon as weather permits continue throughout the summer, and as late in fall as conditions allow. Last season the department was favored with exceptionally good weather for hatching and planting.

The department plans this year to increase the propagation of muskellunge and black bass to a fingerling size, or even larger, before releasing them, and also to continue experimentation with forage fish.

Following Wisconsin in artificial fish propagation are Minnesota and Ohio. Both raise only half the amount raised in Wisconsin annually.

Second Only to U. S.

Wisconsin with its 33 hatcheries is second only to the national government in supplementing natural fish breeding. In 1936, the last year for which records are available, the federal bureau of fisheries distributed almost 3,000,000 fry and fingerling fish of 6 varieties.

The federal government maintains 87 hatcheries, while 37 states together have more than 400 Pennsylvania with a total expenditure of $251,000 last year, spent more than any other state in fish breeding, while Wisconsin, heading the list in production, ranked fifth with $170,000, which approximates $292 for each million fish. The national average is about $221.

Ever practical, Wisconsin has not lost sight of the economic advantages of large scale fish production. Fishing as recreation has become a big business in the state. Thousands of fishing licenses bring many

HOLLYWOOD LIGHT CAMERA ACTION CHEPPENICE

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—The eight years are so short: I. She was a little blue-eyed brunette from Canada by way of New York, and she was working in a quickie out at the old Warner Bros. lot where the big star was a very romantic fellow.

The big star was doing a thing called "Don Juan" to prove among other things that when better love scenes were made he would make them, that when more star-struck girls swooned over a Great Lover he would be the G.L. Actually, of course, the guy was just making a living and he didn't care a hoot about the gushy movie romance.

There were even slanders who insisted that, for sheer contrariness, he made a habit of chewing garlic before a love scene just to see if his leading lady could take it.

So the little blue-eyed brunette used to stand in the background on his sets, and marvel, and think how wonderful it would be if some day she could work with so great an actor.

Well, the other day it happened. They were working together. But Norma Shearer was the star of "Marie Antoinette" and John Barrymore, no longer the Great Lover, was sinking his teeth deep into a character role. And the little girl, grown up, said she was just as excited.

Thousands of dollars into the state treasury, and thousands of fishermen each year leave many thousands more with hotel keepers, resort operators and with the state highway department in gasoline taxes. Realizing the advantages of promoting an industry which now ranks second only to agriculture, the conservation department, with the authority of the state legislature, is spending $75,000 annually in advertising to attract tourists and fishermen.

Robert Taylor

cited and awe-struck now as she would have been in the old days. It had almost happened once before—but in "Romeo and Juliet," Norma and John had no scenes together.

He Still Worries

II. Nobody much looked up, except maybe a dizzy girl or two, when he came into the studio commissary to have lunch with me. He was an uncommonly handsome fellow, but he wasn't a name. He'd done a thing or two in pictures, and a few people were beginning to conjecture on his possibilities as a star. But they conjectured about almost everybody.

The first thing that hit, when we got to talking, was the chap's modesty, unusual for a picture-struck kid as good-looking as that. He hoped like everything he'd get somewhere in pictures, he needed the money, but he didn't really think it would last. He was worried about it, and it wasn't an act.

Today Robert Taylor is, essentially the same fellow he was then. He still worries but not so much, and he tries to carry off his spotlighted condition as lightly as they'll let him. When he enters the commissary eyes click and pop, but he's getting used to it and he doesn't look so self-conscious as a mere. Maybe he reckons that a fellow who's survived the tag of "Beautiful Bob" can't meet much worse!

Basement Shopper

III. It was after the little girl's first click in pictures, but she wasn't too famous to go shopping with her mamma.

Ran across the two of them down in the basement of a popular-price department store, and the mamma was looking for, of all unglamorous things, a garbage can. One of the reasons I like Mrs. Ruth Withers today, and daughter Jane, is that mamma spoke right up then, like anybody else, and didn't pretend for a minute she was just slumming, or had wandered there by mistake.

Committees to Confer On Building Ordinance

Men interested in building, the building code committee and the ordinance committee of the common council will meet at 7:30 Friday evening in city hall to consider details of the proposed building ordinance.

Expected to attend the meeting are local contractors, lumber dealers, master builders and members of the trades and labor council. The code to be considered originally was drafted by a special committee appointed by Mayor Goodland.

Heads above the crowd

A True Story

FOLKS, HERE'S A HEADY SPANIEL... a friend indeed... just as the "51 Watchdogs of Quality" are indeed friends to OLD QUAKER. This cool-headed dog merits the "Mark of Merit" for inching his way over treacherous river ice, that threatened to crack under his feet at every step, and pulling a dog twice his weight to shore and safety.

We like to tell about these head-up dog heroes because OLD QUAKER is heads-above-the-crowd whiskey. "51 Watchdogs of Quality" guard it from grain to glass... 51 rigid checks and double-checks that make OLD QUAKER, in our opinion; the mildest, smoothest, 90-proof straight whiskey on the market. Nod your head for OLD QUAKER today!

EMPIRE FOR A LADY BY ALAN LEMAY

SYNOPSIS: Carrying a gun-car for Rajah Mantusen, we encounter a Dyak revolt against the Malays on Sumatlang Island. Mantusen blames my uncle, James Clyde, and holds him prisoner until I (Paul Thorne) can bring our fortified ship, the Linkang, up-river to aid the Malays. Christine Forrester, a young English girl, is better. Her dead father's ambition was freedom for the Dyaks, and she is completing his plan. Just as I realize that rescuing Clyde is almost impossible without Christine's support, he escapes. We must prepare for a Malay attack.

Chapter 22
Christine Softens
When I told Christine that Clyde was safe, she broke into tears. I had to stand by awkwardly, hoping that her sobs would subside, while the men waited in the boat. Finally I broke the uncomfortable delay by telling my men to come aboard. They came pling over the rail, silent and matter-of-fact.

She dropped her hands then, and faced me. There were tears running down her face, and I felt that I ought to do something for that, but I let it pass.

"Go forward," I ordered. Then, to her, "The thing is this: the Malays aren't going to stay in their stockade any more. They're going to risk everything in a hard smash to force the river."

"Mantusen told Clyde this?"

"It was Mantusen's plan before Clyde walked in on him. We even talked it over with him when we were up there. Of course after he got hold of Clyde, he held back to see if I could do anything for him with the Linkang. But now that Clyde is free, the Malays will go through with it, and they'll do it right away. It's the only chance they have."

"It isn't any chance at all. If they try to push down that river, they'll be killed, every single man."

"That's as may be. The Dyaks made a mistake in taking their booms out of the channel. As it is, Mantusen's fighters--"

"Even without the Tenyalang they would be cut to pieces in the river. With the Tenyalang sharp-shooting them every foot of the way, not a single Malay prau will ever reach this bay."

"Well, anyway," I evaded, "Captain Clyde is afraid of the chance. He thinks--"

"I interrupted me sharply. 'Why are your men on my ship?' 'Well, you see, he wants to lend us to you until we see what will really happen.' I wanted to avoid all the argument I could. 'He couldn't send very many men, but we are well armed. He thought we'd be useful in helping to fight the Avon, if it comes to fighting.'"

"Very Young. Very Lovely."

"It isn't necessary," she said.

"Not a bit. You may as well go back and tell him I thank him--we thank him--but--"

Unexpectedly she softened. In the shadows of the deck awning I couldn't see her face very clearly, but her eyes lost their unfriendliness, and humor widened the deep, dark curve of her mouth.

"Poor, worried Captain Clyde," she smiled. "I can imagine a woman loving that man. I can imagine it very easily."

"I stared at her. It was the first time I had seen warmth in her face, or a smile that was spontaneous, and it changed her completely. I had known before that Christine Forrester was an extremely handsome young woman. But no moment in our quarrelsome arguments had impressed me, as I was impressed now with the other facts that she was after all very young and very lovely--capable of meriment and tenderness and perhaps further things undreamed of."

"I'll be glad for your help," she said now. Her words were gentle, and a little breathless. "Mr. Thorne, Turn to Page 22"

Spend More Money For Child Welfare, Kiwanis Club Told

Destiny of America Lies At Hearthstone, Social Worker Says

Neenah—If the 15 billion dollar crime bill incurred annually in the United States were reversed with the one billion dollar education bill, a substantial decrease would result in the number of dependent, delinquent and illegitimate children, Miss Mabel L. Thorstensen, Milwaukee, field secretary for the Lutheran Welfare society of Wisconsin, told members of the Neenah Kiwanis club Wednesday noon at a meeting at the Valley Inn.

The social worker declared that the seat of the difficulty facing the country is in the home. She claimed that there are 300,000 children "adrift" in the United States and that 4 per cent of the children in this country are illegitimate.

"The destiny of America lies at the hearthstone," Miss Thorstensen stated, and then added that the home is the most important of the three institutions of divine origin. The church and state are the other two institutions.

Advocating a concerted drive similar to the ones being carried on by the Lutherans and the Catholics, the social worker contended that the 20,000 dependent children, half of whom are illegitimate, in Wisconsin could properly be taken care of.

She outlined the 3-point program conducted by the Lutherans which includes a central agency, institution and foster homes. The Lutheran society is only a year old and so far 189 dependent children, 34 married mothers and 32 miscellaneous cases have been taken care of.

Miss Thorstensen appealed to the Kiwanians to help in stamping out the use of the marijuana cigarette which she claimed is even affecting the youth in Neenah schools.

It Is Said--

That Twin City residents who slipped, skidded and slithered to work this morning were in no mood to appreciate the beauty of the icy decorations on trees, telephones, wires, bushes and buildings. At the new Menasha High school some members of the staff wanted to have football shoes issued so that the ice-covered streets could be negotiated with safety.

New Water Plant Saves $5,000 in Operating Cost

Neenah—Despite the fact that there was an increase of 2,000,000 gallons of water pumped at the water works plant during 1937 over the preceding year, the actual cost of operating the new plant during 1937 was $5,051.69 less than in 1936, when the old plant was in operation, according to statistics released today by City Clerk H. S. Zemlock.

These figures indicate, Zemlock said, that Neenah already is realizing from its investment in the new plant. Besides getting a better product and more efficient service, the plant is beginning to pay for itself although it has been in operation only one year.

During 1937 expenditures incurred amounted to $55,026.74, while during the preceding year, it cost $60,058.43 to operate the plant. Water sales during 1937 even increased over the preceding year, the increase amounting to $5,474.99. Water sales last year totaled $72,197.94, while in 1936 they amounted to $67,722.95.

The pumpage of water during 1937 amounted to 198,234,000 gallons while during 1936 the total pumpage was 196,421,000 gallons.

Ratio Is High

Zemlock added in a complete report issued today that the percentage of metered water to the pumpage is better in 1937 than in 1936, although the unaccounted-for water which was used in the new plant for backwashing the sand filters amounted to 7,600,000 gallons.

"The 1938 operating costs will be higher than the 1937 costs because the operation of the new plant was not over a period of the full year, and the taxes for the past year were on the valuation of the old plant rather than the completed new plant," Zemlock said in his report.

The Waterworks commission, however, is currently contemplating changing rate schedules in order to sell more water this year. Selling more water will not raise the expense of operating the plant which are fixed with the exception of chemicals and electricity. This may offset the added cost considerably.

Neenah Seniors to Vote on Question Of Caps and Gowns

Decision of Commencement Apparel Left to Graduating Class

Neenah—Neenah High school's annual problem, determining whether the graduating class will wear caps and gowns during the commencement exercises, was recorded to Principal John H. Holzman.

The seniors will hold a meeting next week when a vote will be taken to determine this year's procedure. Caps and gowns never have been used in the school.

R. C. Ealby, Chicago, a representative of a cap and gown renting company, discussed the advantages as well as the disadvantages of caps and gowns during a meeting yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Holzman advised the students to discuss the matter with their parents before the meeting at which caps and gowns will or will not be adopted. A three-quarter vote in favor of caps and gowns must be cast before adoption.

Holzman told the seniors the matter is entirely in their hands. Some of the advantages of having caps and gowns is that they make for uniformity and in some cases save money for the parents. The disadvantages mentioned at the meeting are that they are the colleges, in some cases add expenses, especially for the boys, and lack color.

If the cap and gown proposal is rejected, a second problem, restricted to the girls, follows. The girls then have to determine whether they will be attired in street clothing or semi-formal dresses.

WPA Orchestra to Play at Menasha

Concert Will Be Presented At Memorial Building Monday Evening

Menasha—Menasha will be included in the observance of Washington's birthday anniversary with an "All-American music festival" by the WPA orchestra at the Memorial building Monday evening, Feb. 21. The concert, which will be played from 8 o'clock to 9:30, will be under the direction of William H. Novotny, Oshkosh.

The program is part of the observance being scheduled for Feb. 21, 22 and 23. Two concerts will be presented at Oshkosh on Feb. 22 and 23. The festivals are being staged wherever a federal music project has been set up. The purpose of the festival is to "bring to the public the best classics produced by American composers," according to Mr. Novotny.

The WPA orchestra is composed of 25 musicians and includes members from Menasha, Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Omro. Benjamin Thomas, who plays the bass viol, is the only Menasha member.

The music will include selections from the works of Hadley, MacDowell, Foster, Sousa, Colman, Grofe, Gerstwin and other famous American composers since the time of Washington. No charge will be made for the concert.

The federal music project is the first subsidized musical movement in the history of the country and has, during the last 18 months, produced more than 3,000 compositions by American composers and afforded native composers the opportunity to be heard. Out of the experiment with subsidized music, it is claimed, a tremendous new audience has been created and America as a whole has been awakened to the necessity and desirability of hearing good music frequently and in increasing amounts.

The association named J. E. Heath Brillion, treasurer, and E. P. Faust, Antigo, and G. F. Vetter, Stevens Point, directors for four year terms. A secretary will be chosen by the executive board. Walker succeeds F. C. Cole, Iron Mountain, Mich., as president.

Author Of The Week

COMMANDER EDWARD ELLSBERG

BERG first got interested in the epic voyage of the "Jeannette" in quest of the North Pole when, years ago, he saw a statue of the ship's commander at Annapolis. This week he publishes the story in the most complete form it has, so far taken, outside of that storehouse of boredom, the Congressional Record. In spite of the Record Commander Ellsberg has made a genuinely thrilling book out of what might have been merely a literary exhumation. Ellsberg is, besides being a naval engineer and an author, an expert at raising sunken submarines—of all things. The book "Hell on Ice."

Fined for Driving Car With License Revoked

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh — Joe Frieske, route 2, Omro, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs in municipal court yesterday by Judge S. J. Luchsing, or after pleading guilty of operating a car after his license had been revoked. Frieske also pleaded guilty of jumping an arterial and was fined $3 and costs. The latter sentence was suspended.

The motorist was arrested by Winnebago county police on Highway 41 near Oshkosh for failing to stop for an arterial. Further checking on the case revealed that Frieske had had his driving license revoked during 1936.

Refute Belief State Schools are Equipped to Guard Pupils' Health

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The Wisconsin Education association, professional organization of Wisconsin teachers, in a statement today contradicted what it calls "the popular idea that schools in Wisconsin are adequately equipped to guard the health of pupils."

In a survey made public today, the teachers' group revealed "the startling fact that 40 per cent of Wisconsin's city school systems did not provide a single penny for medical, dental or nurse services in their 1937 budgets."

The cities of Appleton and Green Bay were cited as typical in Wisconsin by the association. The Appleton school budget last year omitted provisions for medical and dental inspection and service but contained an item of more than $6,000 for nursing service. In Green Bay the schools had no money for medical or nursing service, but spent $1,500 for dental inspection and service.

The association said 74 of Wisconsin's 102 city school systems have no available funds for medical work, 14 more spent under $50 each last year for this type of service, only one school spent more than $500, and the average for the state was less than $35.

Nurse service in city systems is not commonly available, and 58 schools spent nothing for this type of service last year, 12 provided only incidental services amounting to less than $100 a year, while only six systems employed more than one full time nurse in 1937, the group reported.

Dental inspection and service, the association continued, is the most neglected school health work, with no appropriation whatever in 85 per cent of the city schools last year, with the average only $105.

The association's statement declared that "health is now universally recognized as a most important part of the educational process. Yet the city schools of Wisconsin, which provide more in health service than the small town and rural schools, spend less than 25 cents per pupil annually for combined medical, nurse and dental services."

The association urged more adequate school health budgets as "the cheapest kind of protection against potential epidemics."

BETTER BUY BUICK ON EASY GENERAL MOTORS TERMS

WEIGH the new cars dispassionately in the light of what they offer and the facts stand boldly forth as these:

Buick is the ONLY car on the market today offering the efficiency of valve-in-head straight-eight design—modernized with the phenomenally efficient new DYNAFLEX principle of combustion.

Buick is the only car your money can buy with the marvel-ride of TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING—springs of stout, shock-smothering coiled steel that lessen skid-risks, lengthen tire life, actually make the whole car more directable.

Buick is the only car with the safe-security of Unisteel Body by Fisher—plus the blessed quiet and peace of Silent Zone Body Mounting.

Buick is admittedly the best looking car on the market—chosen as such by popular vote with a greater margin over its nearest competitor than any other car enjoys!

Buick's performance is easily the most outstanding on the road—for soaring, thrilling lift and power it doffs its hat to no other car even approaching it in size and comfort.

Such are the facts, and on them you can well decide, "Better buy Buick!" But they do not end the tale. There are two points dealing with figures still needed to complete the full picture of Buick value:

— Buick is not only the lowest-priced straight-eight of its size on the market — But Buick actually lists at lower figures than do some sizes!

Check the facts, check the figures. We know where you'll find yourself in the end.

In a Buick dealer's showroom getting the dope on his easy terms!

"Better buy Buick!"

Finds Few Annoyances in Travels Through Mexico

BY CARL W. MASON
Mexico City—Sitting peacefully amid the carved and gilded grandeur of the former home of General Porfirio Diaz, for 33 years president and dictator of Mexico, I realize after days of colorful travel and vivid sightseeing what a magnificent opportunity Mexico presents to the American traveler, motorist and other traveler. Few foreign lands can offer the variety, contrasts, intense interests and fascinating experiences afforded by this sister republic lying at our door. And the trip to this city and others in the country may be made easily and at very moderate expense.

At the outset let me emphasize that the scare stories circulated through the United States, frequently deterring Americans from venturing into the region south of the Rio Grande, are almost universally unfounded and usually ridiculous. A row between two labor unions far east of Mexico City was made into a wild revolution threatening the whole country and especially the alien traveler. Yet it was purely local, is now ended and was no worse than the clashes between the A. F. of L. and the CIO at home.

Prices are uniformly reasonable, often surprisingly low. The single grade of gasoline available here is not at all bad and even when we have forged up over mountain passes 10,500 feet high we have noticed no lack of power nor annoying "ping" in the motor, although some motorists have reported the latter annoyance. Gasoline stations and services are fairly frequent and are increasing steadily in number and quality. The food question is not a serious one. We have eaten Mexican cooking in spite of ourselves every day and have suffered no ill-effects. I have yet to encounter a community, even a small one, and scarcely a group anywhere on the highway or in villages in which someone could not speak at least a few words of English. Learning of the American language seems to be general and increasing.

The frequent posts or detachments of soldiers, the police and officials so much in evidence do not trouble the travelers, often take the trouble to smile, assist when needed and in every way evidence a desire to show a welcome to the visitors from the Republic of the North as the Mexicans map style our self-satisfied homeland.

Altogether a Mexican tour is easy, safe, well serviced in general, inexpensive and as interesting and profitable as any in the world.

Adopted for Trailers
To facilitate fast traveling and also render ourselves happy to return to independent trailer living we parked our three trailers in Texas and are making this tour by automobile alone. But next time I would certainly bring the trailer in order to be independent, warm in the chill mornings and evenings, have room for comfortable purchases of curios, blankets, bakeware, pottery and all the rest and to enjoy the novelty of trailering in an exotic atmosphere, to say nothing of the economy. It cannot be denied that the pull over the 160 miles of mountains and especially the several passes including that of 8,200 feet near Mexico City is not easy, yet many trailers accomplish it without difficulty, nor do the western and other mountains of our land, often more steep, deter any of us from traveling in these directions. In cases of bad accidents it is more difficult to obtain needed parts and services and distances are longer and service slower. Yet we have heard of few accidents to American outfits, travelers generally having the latter inspected and covered when necessary before leaving Texas. Many take along spare parts likely to be needed in any ordinary emergency. We have seen a number of very bad accidents in which cars have gone off the highway at the frequent, abrupt even "hairpin" curves but undue speed, improperly conditioned cars, driving in the dangerous fogs that sometimes create a serious road hazard especially in the mountains, and too much meal and tequila account for these. The Latins are wild drivers in appearance and tear about and dash across intersections of narrow streets in crowded cities in a manner to raise the newcomer's hair, yet they seem to have surprisingly few accidents.

Next to Hitler, Goering Is Most Powerful in Reich

Berlin—(AP)—Staunch energetic, heavy-set Field Marshal Herman Goering is the German Atlas who, at behest of his master, Adolf Hitler, carries the massive structure of the Third Reich on his broad shoulders.

Next to the Fuehrer, there is no more powerful man in Germany. His executive jobs are: Prussian prime minister (Prussia is two-thirds of Germany), minister of aviation, president of the Reichstag, minister of forestry, reich's master of the hunt, director of the Prussian state theaters and opera, president of the German Academy of Aviation, dictator over foreign exchange and raw materials and plenipotentiary in charge of the four-year economic self-sufficiency plan.

Like Lion Cub
Goering easily is the most popular man in the Nazi party. The common man can understand his speeches. His audiences usually leave in good humor because of sallies, often at his own expense. His sense of humor goes so far that he collects jokes on himself.

One favorite topic of these jokes is the prime minister's love for uniforms. Others are anecdotes that have to do with Goering's love for lion cubs. A baby lion is a constant house pet in the Goering home.

To the outside world Goering is primarily the man who ruthlessly of the Peace M. B. Scott Wednesday afternoon he was charged with having passed a worthless check amounting to $10. Pleading guilty he was bound over to circuit court, and will be taken before Circuit Judge Byron B. Park on Friday for sentence.

Colonel-General Goering

and uncompromisingly pursues the course he considers right. "I know the methods of Moscow," he said to a small group of journalists shortly after the Nazis came into power in 1933, "and believe me, I propose to go them one better." He proceeded to hunt down the communists with a new type of German police patterned upon the GPU of Russia—the Gestapo.

Another example of his energy in carrying out a course deemed right was his stamping out of opposition to Hitler during the famous "blood purge" of June, 1934.

Nobody doubts Goering's personal courage. The many decorations won during the World war, climaxing in the highest German military honor available, testify to his daring as war ace. And when the famous Baron von Richthofen fell, Goering succeeded him as head of the Richthofen squadron.

Has Hold on Army
Loyal though Goering is to Hitler and the Nazi movement, he has not shown the narrowness of other leading Nazis in making appointments to office. His ideal is to train an efficient corps of civil servants, and he has not hesitated to take men not identified with the Nazi movement to accomplish this purpose.

Similarly, Goering did not hesitate to keep Leo Blech for four years to head the panel of conductors at the state opera in Berlin, although Leo Blech is a Jew. Goering is reported to have said when some dogmatic party member tried to call him to account.

Goering's position as second man in the Reich is further rendered secure by his hold upon the army.

The army and the navy recognize that the modern air force is Goering's own creation. They also respect him for his war record.

Dislikes Cities
Goering has made hunting a popular sport in Germany. It serves him politically, too. At his "unofficial" hunting parties, statesmanship often has its innings.

The big city bores him. During the spring and fall, he governs from the Prussian state hunting lodge about 25 miles from Berlin. He spends most of the summer at his Bavarian mountain home not far from Hitler's "Berghof."

Characteristically he jumped vigorously into the task of making Germany as self-sufficient economically as possible within four years.

Under his direction, Germany has started on the most gigantic scale of economy on raw materials that any nation ever has undertaken in peace times.

The WORLD OF STAMPS

BY JAMES B. HATCHER

When Ireland's new constitution took effect Dec. 29, and President Eamon de Valera stepped down to the post of Taoiseach (prime minister), two special stamps were issued.

The design is by Richard J. King, the young Dublin artist who did three previous Irish designs. It shows Eire as a young woman, seated with her right hand resting on a harp, symbol of Greek culture.

She has just written the first words of the new constitution: "I naim na Tríonóide Ro-Naomhtha" (In the Name of the Most Holy Trinity.)

At the bottom of the design are the value figures and "Eireann" (Ireland).

The lecturer supporting the book in which Eire has written bears the arms of the four provinces, Leinster, Connaught, Ulster and Munster. Six of Ulster's nine counties go to make up Northern Ireland which has been stuck by the Crown. But the new constitution was designed for Ireland as a whole.

The stamps are a 2-pence purple, for inland postage, and a 3-p light blue, for foreign. Ordinarily the two-pence is printed in green. The watermark, strangely enough, is the one monogram "S E" — Saorstát Eireann — yet these stamps mark the end of the Free State.

Ireland's first first-day cancellation was applied at seven chief cities. It read: "La an Bhunreacht" (Day of the Constitution).

'Good Friend'

An old statute forbids the picture of any living person on U. S. stamps, but at least three foreign governments have honored living Americans with postal portraits.

In 1930 a Spanish airmail stamp carried the head of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. In 1935 a Turkish semi-postal, commemorating the Women's International Alliance congress, pictured Carrie Chapman Catt. And recently Guatemala portrayed President Roosevelt on one stamp of a souvenir hailing the 150th anniversary of the U. S. Constitution.

The four stamps of this sheet are: George Washington, 15-centavo brown and blue; Roosevelt, 4-c brown and carmine; outline map of western hemisphere, 4-c blue and carmine; Pan-American building at Washington, 15c brown and blue. All are marked "Correo Aereo." The margins are appropriately dated and inscribed in Spanish.

On the Roosevelt stamp a legend runs under the President's picture: "Good true friend of the Latin American people."

To Permit Illustrations Congress has passed and the President has signed, a bill permitting the printing of black-and-white undated illustrations of U. S. and foreign postage (but not revenue) stamps for philatelic purposes. Foreign revenue stamps, including the postage-and-revenue varieties of the British colonies, may be illustrated if defaced.

The old law on illustrating U. S. stamps by showing only parts of the border, greatly enlarged, is incorporated in the new law, but the secretary of the treasury is empowered to formulate new provisions.

Phil Was Schoolboy When Harper Began State Work

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—When anyone serves 34 years in a single job, it's unusual. When an appointive public official holds office for such a long unbroken stretch, weathering successive administrations of widely differing political colors, it's a record, and worthy of public mention. That soon will be the achievement of Dr. Charles A. Harper, member of the state board of health since 1903, and state health officer since 1905, who in a few weeks will enter on his thirty-fourth year as directing head of Wisconsin's public health work and is the oldest appointive official in any state capital in America, including Madison.

IN 34TH YEAR

Governors come and governors go, but old Dr. Harper remains. Today Dr. Harper can recall his work under six governors who appointed and reappointed him. Picked from a private practice in 1905 by the elder Governor Robert M. La Follette, he was recently reappointed by his son, Governor Philipp F. La Follette, who was a seven year old schoolboy when Harper first came to Madison to work for the state.

In more than three decades of state service, the medical veteran survived most of his original associates in the state capital, including Governors La Follette, Davidson, Philipp, and Blaine, and has built his department of health into one of the foremost in the United States, a unit which has repeatedly drawn praise from critical federal health authorities, and in several notable instances has set national, and even international records.

When Dr. Harper became state health officer back in 1904, he was assisted by one clerk and had $4,500 to spend. Local health work was weak or non-existent. Public apathy was discouraging.

State-Wide Program
Today he administers a personnel which ranks among the largest in the state government, health work is state-wide, the legislature is generous in its appropriations, and public education in health work has been developed to a high level.

Dr. Harper has advocated, and seen realized, notable advances in his health promotion, including the extension of state laboratories into all sections of Wisconsin, the establishment of venereal disease clinics in many cities, the establishment of child welfare programs on both state-wide and county-wide scales, public health nursing, sani-in the building which preceded the present capitol building—he has watched the life expectancy of the Wisconsin citizen rise from less than 40 years to 56 years or more today.

A pleasant, hearty, splendidly built man, youthful despite his white shock of hair and his 64 years, Dr. Harper has the admiration and respect of his colleagues in the state service. Whatever his political preferences, they make little difference. Today he is as familiar and highly regarded in the office of Governor La Follette, who played hide and seek in the capitol corridors in the day when Dr. Harper and the first Governor La Follette worked together, as he was during the administrations of such conservatives as Governor Walter Kohler or E. L. Philipp.

On April 1 of this year Dr. Harper will enter his thirty-fourth year of state service. On that date four years ago the employes of his department presented him with a large oil portrait done by Merton Grenhagen, Wisconsin artist, which now hangs in the department's office.

Has Great Influence
More than three decades of dominance in the public health field in Wisconsin, his successful record, and his personality, make him today an influential figure. Recently a blast from his office, a declaration that physical facilities for tuberculosis patients in Wisconsin leave much to be desired, reverberated throughout the state.

His long record has also taught him, he says, that "any success in public health is traceable directly to individual or group cooperation on the part of the citizens."

"Wisconsin is blessed with a population that has shown such interest and cooperation in public health procedures as to place the state high in national standing along many health lines.

But, he adds, "We now realize clearly that we are confronted by a group of enemies of good health and long life against which we can make headway only by direct personal procedures on the part of all individuals. These enemies are tuberculosis, the venereal diseases, the accident menace, and the organic diseases such as heart ailments, cancer, cerebral hemorrhage, nephritis, diabetes, appendicitis, and others."

Dr. Harper's job is not ended, not by any means.

body but a couple of Singapore Malays for officers (later I learned that Stocker himself had talked the Forrester into that), together with a sick boy. He told me that he knew what a hot kettle we were in just as well as I did, only nobody aboard would listen to him. If he had had his way they would have been out of here long ago.

We went over what we would do if the Malays landed on us, and he agreed with Clyde's orders in all essentials. The ammunition for the swivels was stacked ready to hand in the lazaret, but he was willing to put it on deck if I wished. He would be very happy to have me take the wheel going through the pass. He confided, without my suggestion, that it was his secret intention to cut the cables with his own hands. When we understood each other he was anxious to get below again, with that curious instinct of a sick man to crawl off into a dark hole.

Then, I went aft again to see if Christine was still awake.

How long will Christine stick it out? Continued tomorrow.

"He's a good ship master," I said. "And I think he's a good trader."

"He's a terrible trader," she said. "But in another way he is near greatness—very near. Do you see what he did? Do you realize yourself what he did? I mean, when he sent you down the Siderong with those crazy orders to bring the Linkang up the river?"

I was silent. I knew that she had her own answer and wanted none from me.

"He knew that you couldn't get the Linkang across the bar into the Siderong. He knew that with a time. That's why he gave you such strict orders not to land."

"A Brave Man"

It was clever of her to see that I had been convinced of it myself for some while. But I had swallowed the whole thing at the time like a sucker. I said unhappily, "I didn't see it until it was too late. If I had seen it at the time—"

"If you'd seen it at the time you would have said it was impossible. But do you see how great a thing it was that he did? He took all the danger onto his own shoulders. Perhaps not quite all; but the greatest danger—all he could. That is a brave man—and something more than that. There's something fine there, too."

"May I tell him you said so?"

She stiffened. "Tell him what is yours to tell him. I wasn't even speaking to you."

She certainly had been speaking to me, quite directly, and prodding me with questions while she did it. But I left her now and went forward.

Captain Stocker was just coming on deck, roused by the activity out of that feverish stupor which took up most of his days. I took him aside and explained to him quickly what I was here for.

He stood against the galley bulkhead, shivering with the shadow of a chill, and told me honestly that he was almighty damn glad to have us there. He put it to me in a confidential undertone that it was a terrible thing for a man to have no-

Wisconsin Cheese Will Be Served at Banquet at Capital

Souvenir cartons of Wisconsin cheese will be placed at every plate set for 500 persons attending this year's "Little Congress" banquet at the Mayflower hotel, Washington, D. C., Saturday. It was reported today by Wilbur G. Carlson, dairy promotion director of the state department of agriculture and markets.

One of the noteworthy social events at the national capital, the banquet will be attended by secretaries and employes of congressmen from all states of the union.

The cheese is being furnished by the department of agriculture and markets and will be distributed through an arrangement with Ray Zuehlke, Appleton, secretary to Congressman George J. Schneider of the eighth congressional district. Mr. Zuehlke is a member of the Little Congress entertainment committee.

In baking griddle cakes rub the hot griddle frequently with salt tied firmly in piece of cloth. The griddle will then be freed of bits of extra batter and the griddle cakes will not be so likely to stick.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

Nevada City, Calif. — After all these years, geologists have discovered that Nature, too, watered her stocks—at least her gold stocks.

For hot water, says Dr. W. D. Johnston, Jr., of the U. S. geological survey, was the source of the gold-bearing quartz veins.

The veins lie between faces of the rock where millions of years ago they were fractured. Some of these fractures are a few inches wide at some points, 40 feet at others.

Their slope, and the way they must have been filled, says Dr. Johnston, indicates that rising, hot waters brought up the quartz, the gold and the other minerals now forming the veins. This idea is in variance with a general belief of geologists that quartz veins and their gold were produced on the spot by reactions going on within the rocks.

Dr. Johnston tramped through many miles of underground workings to obtain evidence for the hot-water theory of the origin of gold veins. His idea is that the water did not make the gold, but carried the particles.

It's No Use, Dear ... I Can't!

"Nonsense," replied Mr. Newlywed in the abstract way husbands learn so soon. "Can't should never be part of your vocabulary." "But I can't—I simply can't serve delicious meals like Mother did!"

Then came the light for Hubby knew that Mother had always bought her roasts and steaks, chops and sausage right here—and of course, good meat means a good meal!

A large selection of quality meats, tender and appetizing, and sold at moderate prices, await you here.

Industrial Stocks In Spirited Rally On N. Y. Exchange

Rumor Preparations Underway for Move to Stem Recession

New York—Heavy industrial stocks tipped the market scales on the rallying side today for gains running to 3 or more points.

Boardroom observers said the "inflation" bug apparently was biting a bit deeper in speculative circles and most of the day's buying was attributed to this influence.

For several days rumors have been plentiful in boardrooms the administration was preparing for a drastic move to stem the falling business tide. "Pump priming" spending, hoisting of the gold price and reduction of banking reserve requirements were mentioned as possibilities.

Transfers were around 900,000 shares. Coppers, steels, rubbers, farm implements, mail orders, motors and specialties were prominent on the forward tilt.

A few rails did fairly well, as the long-awaited decision on freight rate increases was looked for soon, but most in this division held improvement to fractions. Power and light company issues were also restrained.

Conspicuous on the upside were Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Howe Sound, St. Joseph Lead, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Oliver Farm, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, American Can, Allis Chalmers, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris, National Distillers, American Telephone, Sante Fe and Douglas Aircraft.

Earnings

Chicago—The Trans company with headquarters in La Crosse, Wis., today reported net profit for the year ending Dec. 31, 1937, was $397,610. This compares with $337,116 for the previous year. The net included earnings of all subsidiary companies. The company manufactures air conditioning equipment.

Wheat Quotations In Maximum Gains On Chicago Market

Conferences on Proposed Raise in Price Levels Spurs Buying

Chicago—Nervousness over Washington official conferences about proposed hoisting of commodity price levels led to hurried buying of wheat futures today, and quotations scored sudden maximum net advances of about 2 cents. Talk of inflation possibilities inspired much of the buying not only of wheat but of other grains as well. A circumstance, though, which tended to throw cold water on buying ardor was dearth of any new export demand of consequence for North American wheat.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1 cent to 1 1/2 cents above yesterday's finish, May 94-94 1/2, July 89 1/2, corn 1 1/2 up, May 60 1/2, July 61 1/2, and oats 1 1/2 advanced.

Disprove Theory That 'Only' Child Is Spoiled

Chicago—The "only" child of a family is no more pampered or spoiled than children of large families, says Dr. William Paul Carter of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Carter bases his conclusions on statistics obtained from more than 4,000 "only" children in 50 colleges and universities in 29 states.

He says his findings disprove the theory that the only child gets more indulgence, attention, love and protection than youngsters having brothers or sisters.

"The majority of only children were found to be treated much the same as the oldest, youngest and middle children by their parents," Dr. Carter observed. "They were found to participate as fully and normally in group life after the preschool period and to be as well adjusted in their social relations as any other children."

Fugitive Slave Refuge Will be in State Park

Ripley, O.—Historic "Eliza House," famous as the first station in the "underground railroad" of fugitive slaves escaping from the south, soon will be part of a state park.

Col. Al Hatfield, present owner, announced he had accepted a $5,000 offer of the Ohio State Archaeological society for the house and grounds.

The house became a refuge for slaves during the height of the abolitionist struggle in ante-bellum days. It was the residence of the Rev. John Rankin, pastor of the Ripley Presbyterian church and one of the leading abolitionists of southern Ohio.

As the fugitives crossed the Ohio river, they were secreted there until they could be taken to the next "station" on the road to Canada and freedom.

W. A. T. A. Christmas Seal Sale Brings in $206 at New London

New London—A total of $206.80 has been realized on the 1937 Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Christmas seal sale in New London to date, according to Mrs. John Maloney, seal sale chairman. The sum of $107.51 was received the year before compared to $146 in 1935.

Assisting Mrs. Maloney in the sale were Mrs. C. D. Feathers and Mrs. M. A. Borchardt.

Begin Cast Selection For 2 School Operettas

New London—Two operettas for presentation at Washington High school March 11 have been chosen by teachers of Lincoln grade school and the casting of nearly 250 pupils is under way this week.

Because of the large enrolment the six grades are split into two groups and each will present a separate operetta at the same time. The kindergarten, first, second and third grades will present a delightful story, "Sunny Bunny's First Easter," calling for about 20 principal characters.

"Mulligan's Magic" has been chosen for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades with about 15 speaking parts. Both shows will provide a variety of clever and striking costumes.

In "Sunny Bunny's First Easter" a playful little rabbit strays from his rollicking brothers and sisters and Mother and Grandpa Rabbit and becomes caught in a trap. He is rescued by a small boy who takes him home for the night and cares for his injured foot. When the little boy returns Sunny Bunny to his family the next day the rabbits rejoice and reward the astonished youngster by painting Easter Eggs for him. The action is clever and exciting with choruses of rabbits and flowers and trees.

A fast action comedy farce centers around a group of enterprising children in "Mulligan's Magic." Mulligan is a medicine man who comes to a country store which is being cared for their aunt by two children. The store is run down and in trying to revive business the children ransack the place and find some old jewelry and clothing. Though Mulligan's advice they learn the value of the trinkets and sell them at fancy prices to nearby summer resort patrons. Much comedy and excitement follows Mulli-
